RIVAL STABS JEALOUS MAN; LIFE IN PERIL

Ill Feeling of a Year Past Between Two Young Men in Carondelet Culminates in Encounter the Result of Which May Be Fatal.

ASSAILANT AND VICTIM SAY EACH ATTACKED THE OTHER

Wounded Man Is Employe of City Health Department, and His Injuries Are So Serious That Physician Refused to Approve Bail.

After he had been stabbed in the left lung, Daniel L. Glock walked half a dozen blocks to a physician's office, while Joseph Hopkins, who is charged with having done the stabbing, walked toward the home of the girl both were fond of.

An hour or so later Sergt. Conley, expecting to find Hopkins at the home of Miss Anna Coffielt, 7710 Minnesota avenue, went there. Near there he found the young man and arrested him.

The affair occurred at 8 o'clock Friday evening in Carondelet, and there are two accounts of it.

Glock, whose mother is a widow, and whose family has resided in Carondelet many years, says that he was standing at Broadway and Schirmer street when Hopkins approached and stabbed him from behind.

Hopkins declares that he was walking on Schirmer street near Broadway when he was met by Glock, who attacked him and knocked him down. Fearing that great harm might befall him, he drew a knife, and when Glock struck him again he stabbed Glock.

After being cut Glock walked to the office of Dr. Max C. Starkloff, 7619 South Broadway, where his injury was attended, and was sent home. Dr. Starkloff found the left lung to be penetrated, and considers the wound dangerous.

Rivalry Began With Acquaintance.

The police say that the stabbing occurred on Schirmer street, at the mouth of an alley between Broadway and Pennsylvania avenue. They also report that Hopkins was arrested at the home of Miss Coffielt, but her mother, Mrs. Katherine Voirrol, and her stepfather deny this.

Hopkins, who is a hardware clerk, 24 years old, resides at 115 Nagel street. Glock, who is a sanitary officer for the health department, 26 years old, resides at 7809 Water street. Up to a year ago Glock and Miss Coffielt were fast friends, but about that time Hopkins came upon the scene and ever since then there has been bad feeling between the young men.

A warrant was issued this morning charging Hopkins with assault to kill. Glock's wound is considered so serious that Dr. Starkloff refused to approve a bond for Hopkins' release.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Aug. 27.—Papers in a civil suit were served by a deputy sheriff on T. E. Peters, an El Paso, Tex., cattleman, after he was arrested by policemen last night on complaint of Thomas F. McDonald of a local livestock commission company and taken to jail.

The petition in the civil suit says that on June 21, 1899, Peters gave McDonald his note for $22,500, payable in 90 days with interest. The suit was filed in the circuit clerk's office ten day's ago.

No criminal charge has been made against Peters. The police record merely shows he is "held for investigation."

OH! THE IRONY OF THIS "SKIDOODLER"

"Were You After Me?" Observed He, After Police Auto Had Nearly Run Its Legs Off.

COOLLY PLANKED DOWN FINE

Merry Chase Through Sylvan Dales of Forest Park After Another Barney Oldfield.

Officers Cooney and Hutton, the automobile squad at Forest Park, told a story in the City Hall police court Saturday morning that sounded like a recitation of the charlot race from "Ben Hur."

It pertained to the offense of Charles X. Craft, an Indianapolis traveling man, whom Judge Tracy subsequently fined $10 and costs for scorching with an automobile.

Craft paid the money without a murmur. He put it up with the air of a satisfied man who has had his money's worth. Onlookers were inclined to believe, judging by the story told by the police, that Craft would have paid $100 with the same willingness.

Earth knows no fairer day than was Friday at Forest Park. It was a day of cool zephyrs, with the soft haze of Indian summer tempering the rays of the sun. The squirrels frisked about at the feet of the lazily swaying trees. The quail piped in the half-dark wood, and the incense of pennyroyal came out of the grass like sweet perfume from Araby blown.

The big skidoodle wagon of the automobile squad crept lazily over a roadway. Chug—chug—chug, went the lackadaisical motor in a nothing-doing sort of way.

"Yes, Jeff will send that fellow back to the mines pretty qui——" Cooney was saying to Hutton, when——

"Gadzooks!" Hutton exclaimed.

On the crest of a hill and straight ahead was a bounding, lurching automobile.

"Scorcher!" shouted the leader of the squad, tightening his grip on the lever and shoving it ahead in a way that made the big police skidoodle wagon quiver like a dying thing and then plunge headlong up the road.

"He sees us! He's turned around!" shouted the assistant chief of the squad.

Swish!

The scorcher came around with his helm hard down and straightened out for a stern chase.

The race began at the Jefferson drive. The big machine of the automobile squad groaned and strained and kicked gasoline all over the tree trunks alongside the road. The automobile squad leaned forward and pushed on the dashboard.

But, alas!

"We don't seem to gain on him," said the chief of the squad.

"Looks to me like he was gaining on us," said the chief, intimating that the assistant chief would better jump out.

"Did they buy this for a racer?" asked the assistant.

"I believe we're after Barney Oldfield," said the chief.

"And not pushing him exactly, either," said the assistant.

Up hill and down hill raged the daring race. The flying skidoodle wagons turned corners on two wheels, righted, darted through sylvan groves and bounded over bridges.

At South Grand drive the scorcher stopped his machine after the chase had progressed two miles. He was waiting for the automobile squad when it came up.

"Were you after me?"

This was too much. They leaped out and placed him under arrest. His speed was bad enough, but his irony was worse.

SIXTEEN HURT IN TERRIFYING TROLLEY WRECK

Jefferson Avenue Car, Full of Passengers, Slipping Switch, Runs Over Pavement and Is Split in Two by Crash Against Telephone Poles.

SCREAMS TERRIFY RESIDENTS OF VICINITY FOR BLOCKS

In Rough Jolting Across Street, Few of Those in Car Escaped Bruises and One Young Man Was Picked Up Half Conscious.

Thirteen persons were injured, at least one of them severely, in a harrowing street car wreck on the Jefferson avenue line, at 10:15 o'clock this morning. The injured are:

Miss Florence Hammell of Peoria, Ill., stopping at 3420 Illinois avenue; hurt about the body.

Ida Weber, 2759 St. Vincent avenue; bruised about the hips and shoulders.

Julia Walsh, 3209 South Jefferson avenue; injured about the head.

Herman Pope, 1644 South Jefferson avenue; head hurt.

Mrs. Christopher Fries, 3718 Ohio avenue; hip injured.

Hilma Barthal, 3301 Lemp avenue; arm hurt.

Alice Cardwell, 3311 Salena street, back hurt.

Matilda Beltman, 3350 South Broadway; head hurt.

Lizzie Krenzee, 2144 Allen avenue; back hurt.

Henry Hilmich of Madrid, Ind., stopping at 2613 Potomac street; body bruises.

Mrs. D. R. Wiman, 3349 South Jefferson avenue; back bruised.

John W. Russell, motorman, 1506 Lafayette avenue; internally injured.

Charles Scheer, 2221 Cherokee street, body badly bruised.

Julius Cole, 2870 McNair avenue, injured about head.

Miss Rose Hammill, Peoria, Ill., stopping at 3429 Illinois avenue, arm broken, internally injured.

The accident was peculiarly terrifying. The car was running north at a high rate of speed and slipped a switch as it crossed Pestalozzi street.

Instantly it shot from the rails and darted diagonally across the street intersection toward the telephone and trolley poles on the northeast corner.

With the first lurch of the car, the 25 passengers were on their feet. As the car dashed across the street the terrified passengers uttered cries of fright and rushed for the doors.

In an instant the car had rushed headlong upon the poles at the corner, fairly split itself with the impact, lurched heavily, and then crashed down on its side, hurling men and women through windows and banging them here and there against the side and roof of the car.

Panic Caused in Vicinity.

The crash of the accident and the cries of the frightened and injured were heard for blocks, and people ran to the corner from both the intersecting streets.

It was thought that some of the passengers had been pinned under the car, but the search for them was delayed until those who lay in the street and were imprisoned in the car had been looked after.

Most of the passengers were able to get to their feet, but others were either injured or stunned to the extent that they lay where they had fallen.

Miss Hammell of Peoria, who was with her sister, was so badly crushed that she was helpless and almost unconscious. Her sister, who was in the seat with her, escaped injury.

John W. Russell, the motorman, was hurled through the front vestibule of the car and alighted upon the sidewalk. He was dazed when they picked him up, and was taken home with internal injuries.

Herman Pope, the conductor, was standing upon the rear platform when the car struck. He was hurled out into the street, striking his head.

Some of the passengers who were sent flying for quite a distance were least injured.

The car struck in front of the saloon of Louis Kaub, and when it bore down on the saloon persons standing at the door dashed into the saloon, convinced that the car was going to break into the building. It was stopped by the poles at the curb, and is an almost total wreck.

Dr. A. V. L. Brokaw, chief surgeon for the Transit company, was summoned, and three other physicians quickly appeared upon the scene. It was found that all the injured save Miss Hammell were able to go to their homes on cars.

A carriage was called for Miss Hammell, and she was sent to her stopping place on Illinois avenue under the care of a doctor.

The car ran 60 feet after leaving the track. In the interval of time consumed in going from the point where it left the track to the corner where it struck, the passengers had time to leap to their feet in full consciousness of their danger. Nothing but the lurching of the rapidly-moving car, which made it hard to get [illegible] the seats or even stand up in them, kept the passengers from jumping out before the car struck.

Many of the injured were picked up in a half-dazed condition by Patrolmen Shanahan, Rogers and Cronin, who witnessed the wreck. They assisted several to the offices of physicians in the neighborhood, where the injuries were dressed.

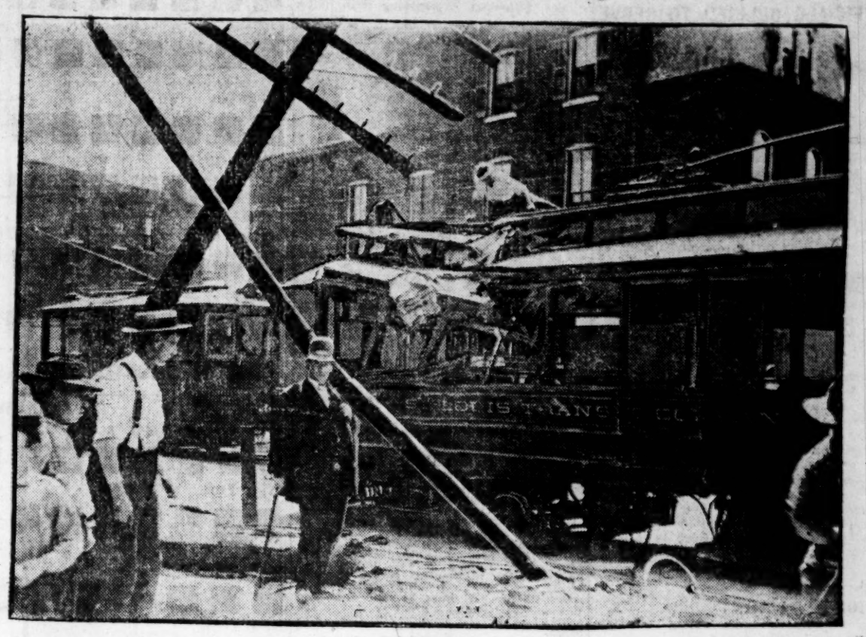

Officer Shanahan found a purse, containing $150 lying under a broken seat in the car. The purse was soon called for by a woman, who had been a passenger on the car, and was turned over to her by the officer.

STORY OF DEATH RUSE OF BURGLARS

"Your Husband's Dead," They Tell Woman, and Then Attempt Robbery.

TWO PLACED UNDER ARREST

Wife, Grief-Stricken Over Sad News, Rushed to Iron Works, Leaving House Open to Thieves.

"Who lives over yonder?" asked two young men after they had knocked at the door of Mrs. Mary Swineard, 1118 South Newstead avenue, pointing to the residence of Mrs. A. Hissman, 4463 Vista avenue, and their question was answered.

"Where is her husband employed?"

"At the Koken iron works."

A few minutes later two young men—the same two—knocked at Mrs. Hissman's door. They introduced themselves politely and informed her that they were come upon a sad mission—that they had been sent by the foreman to break to her the news that her husband had just been killed at the company's plant.

Grief-stricken, Mrs. Hissman hurried with her things and was soon ready to start for the Koken iron works. She asked the young men to go with her, but they said no—that other men had been killed and there were other families to be notified.

Mrs. Hissman departed alone. A block away she met Mr. and Mrs. John Turner of 4439 Vista avenue, and to them she imparted the painful news. As Mr. and Mrs. Turner passed the Hissman house they saw two young men trying to pry open a wire screen on a back window. Mr. Turner chased them a short distance, but they escaped.

That was Thursday afternoon. Yesterday two policemen arrested at 2567 Benton street two young men who gave their names as Charles Goehler, aged 21, and Albert Keff er, aged 19.

Mrs. Hissman says that these are the same young men who were at her home Thursday. This morning warrants charging each of them with attempted burglary were issued by Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Dalton.

WHAT? DE-LIGHTED! YELL THE NEWSIES

All Will Be in Line to Attend Free Exhibition of the Boer War.

FERRIS WHEEL RIDE THROWN IN

Many of the Boys Will Write What They Think About It for the Prize.

When the news got out among the newsboys that they were invited to spend Monday evening at the Boer War, it did not take long to make the circle of the city. All the newsies were busy telling their friends of the magnificent time they were going to have. It will be one glorious evening of excitement and unmitigated pleasure.

Everybody has heard of the Boer War, but few have had an opportunity to see it. On Monday night every newsboy will be given the unlooked-for opportunity. The boys are going to be taken care of all right. Those that are able to get downtown early enough will be brought out in street cars from the foot of Olive street. They will be brought to one of the main entrances and will be marched along the Pike. Every boy will wear a badge, which will be given him at the newspaper office where he obtains his papers. This badge will entitle him to admission to the Boer War performance.

After the Boer War performance is over, arrangements have been made for the boys to be likewise entertained at the Ferris Wheel, where they will have an opportunity of traveling the circuit and enjoying the magnificent illuminations.

Monday night will be the first night of the new departure on the part of the Boer War management in giving their evening performances at 7:30 o'clock. It has been given previously at 8:30 o'clock, but as the evenings are now beginning to shorten and so many visitors are desirous of visiting other attractions before returning home, a change has been made for the general public's convenience.

All the boys are talking of entering the competition and writing a story about the Boer War in order to try and win the $10 gold piece and the season ticket, which the Boer War management has offered to give to the newsboy who writes the best descriptive article on the Boer War as he sees it on Monday night. The boys will be given until next Sunday to write their stories and should send them very plainly addressed to Mr. E. Sherman Danby, Boer War Exhibit, World's Fair.

A large number of the newsboys of the Boston Herald and Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph were here last week and have enthused a supreme desire into the hearts of all the boys to visit the wonderful exhibit at the Boer War.

There will be plenty of room for the newsies, as the grandstand seats over twenty-two thousand people. A special section will be reserved, and many visitors will surely take particular pleasure in being present on Monday night if only to hear the shouts of joy and the screams of delight of the ever-present "newsy."

TEN HURT IN CAR-CROSSING WRECK

Olive Street Car Crashes Into Suburban Line Coach at Union and Delmar.

FAIR VISITOR IS INJURED

Ambulance, Which Was Waiting in Stable Near By, Took Victims to Hospital.

Ten persons were injured in a collision between an eastbound Olive street car and a northbound Suburban car at Union and Delmar boulevard at 1:45 Saturday afternoon.

The two most severely injured are William Goodman, motorman of the Olive street car, whose face and body were cut and bruised, and William Kuffer of 3119 California avenue, whose leg was injured and who was internally hurt.

Both were removed to the City Hospital in a city ambulance which happened to be waiting only a half block from the scene of the accident, at the Keyes-Marshall livery stable.

All the other injured persons were taken to their homes either on street cars or private vehicles. Among them were: Mrs. Elizabeth Menown, a World's Fair visitor, and Miss Hannigan of 4139 North Grand avenue.

Mrs. Menown's knee was injured and Miss Hannigan suffered from a nervous shock.

All the injured persons were passengers on the Olive street car. Policeman T. P. Anderson of the Mounted district and W. A. Lucas were the only passengers on the suburban car.

The Olive street car struck the middle of the Suburban car, knocking it from the track and turning it around. J. E. Grennon, motorman of the Suburban car, was only slightly bruised and the passengers escaped.

The force of the collision wrecked the vestibule of the Olive street car, and Motorman Goodman was caught in a mass of wreckage and cut as well as bruised.

Kuffer was sitting well back in the car and was thrown violently against a seat on the opposite side of the aisle.

RUSSIANS VICTORS BUT LOSE 1450

Official Reports to the Czar Indicate Japanese Were Repulsed in Effort to Isolate Two Divisions of Gen. Kuropatkin's Army.

MANY GUNS DISMANTLED AND LOSSES ENORMOUS

Boldness With Which the Mikado's Troops Attacked Leads St. Petersburg to Believe They Have Been Reinforced Heavily From South.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 27.—The first battle of what may be regarded as a general advance of the Japanese on Liaoyang was fought on Aug. 26 with the result that the Russians at the close of the fighting still held the positions and had inflicted great loss on the Japanese, completely dismantling several batteries which attempted to bombard the main position at Liandiansian. The Russian losses altogether were 1450 killed or wounded.

A long official telegram has been received at the war office, but it does not give a hint of what is transpiring today. It is more than probable, however, that the Japanese have resumed their attempt to reach Liaoyang. The silence on this point of the special dispatches filed at Liaoyang this morning rather confirms this view.

The hottest fighting occurred in the valley of the Lan, a small tributary of the Taitse, around Tsegow, a place between Anping and Liandiansian.

Gen. Kuroki's first aim apparently was to separate the two principal Russian positions. The Russians in the valley of the Lan lost 1450 men.

Gen. Kuroki's army advanced in three strong columns, one northward along the valley of the Sindahla, a tributary of the Taitse, as far as Liudintan, whence a portion of this force marched westward to Miao pass, threatening Anshanshan, the other portion pushing up the stream to Tunsinpu, four miles southwest of Liandiansian, where it was stopped by Gen. Kuropatkin's Cossacks.

The second column marched along the high road and occupied Erdaha, whence the batteries shelled Liandiansian, a couple of miles northwest, until the fire of the Russian guns silenced them. Several Japanese batteries were completely dismantled and were abandoned by their gunners.

The fighting at Tsegow was of the most desperate description. The Japanese had the advantage of the mountainous country, advancing along a ridge extending from Tantzlaputsy to Sialondzy. The latter place is situated on the high road, 10 miles southeast of Liaoyang. Possession of this point would render Liandiansian and Anping untenable. It is not improbable that Gen. Kuroki will therefore repeat his attack in this direction.

The Japanese advance was characterized by the greatest boldness and arouses the belief in military circles that either Gen. Kuroki has received considerable reinforcements or Gen. Kuropatkin has sent the greater portion of his army north, leaving only a couple of corps at Liaoyang.

The absence of news of a Japanese movement along the Taitse river, in order to flank Liaoyang, confirms the latter view, as it would expose the attackers to being cut off by Gen. Kuropatkin's main army from the north.

KUROKI JOINS OKU IN EFFECT TO CUT CZAR'S LINE.

LIAOYANG, Aug. 27.—Gen. Kuroki has joined forces with Gen. Oku in an attempt to cut the Russian line east of this place.

The battle of Aug. 25 ranged along the eastern front.

A strong Japanese force attacked the Russian positions at Miao Pass, 15 miles east of Anshanshan and at Sandiatsi and Tsegow, 10 miles northeast of Liandiansian. Nine batteries of six guns each bombarded the Russian outposts. At this point the combat repeatedly developed into hand-to-hand fighting.

The Russians stubbornly held the outposts the whole day, falling back on their main position at night.

The chief artillery engagement was in front of Liandiansian, the Japanese concentrating the fire of ten batteries and simultaneously advancing on Tcrintepu, four miles southwest of Liandiansian, but they were arrested by Cossacks, who were afterwards reinforced by infantry and artillery.

The Japanese resumed the bombardment early yesterday, devoting most of their attention to Liandiansian.

The Russian field guns were very effective. They dismantled thirty-two Japanese guns, mostly mountain guns.

The casualties have not been ascertained.

INJURED CRUISER DIANA PUTS INTO FRENCH PORT.

SAIGON, French Indo-China, Aug. 27.—The Russian cruiser Diana which arrived here, Aug. 26, with a shell hole below her water line, received in the naval battle off Port Arthur, Aug. 10, has not received instructions from the government at St. Petersburg to disarm or repair her damage, which are slight. Another Japanese shell killed an officer of the Diana and three men and wounded 12 others. The cruiser tried to reach Shanghai, but encountered some Japanese torpedo boats. The latter discharged nine torpedoes without effect at the Diana.

...M ...DISEASE

...ice Pryor, Illustrious Surgeon, ...ies in New York Hospital from Pernicious Anemia.

NO CURE KNOWN FOR MALADY

Fellow Physicians Helpless to Cope With Affliction of Colleague Who Diagnosed Own Case.

DISEASE ROBS BLOOD OF RED CORPUSCLES.

Pernicious anemia is a disease of the blood, in which the red corpuscles and haemagoblins rapidly diminish. The blood of a healthy man contains 5,000,000 red corpuscles and 100 per cent of haemagoblins to about one drop, whereas with a man in the last stages of pernicious anemia a drop of his blood contains 500,000 corpuscles, barely a tenth of of what he should have under normal conditions. And only 30 per cent of haemagoblins. The direct cause of death of a person suffering from this disease may be ascribed to the nonaction of any organ in his body. His heart may cease to work, his brain may stop pulsating, his lungs may refuse to fill with air, and all from the same cause—lack of oxygen, which the haemagoblins give to the flesh tissues.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—It became known today that Dr. William Rice Pryor, son of the noted New York jurist and former Confederate general, Roger A. Pryor, who died in St. Vincent's Hospital Thursday night, succumbed to pernicious anemia, one of the rarest known morbid conditions of the circulatory system.

Prominent physicians from every part of the country by the score visited St. Vincent's Hospital during the week to take notes on Dr. Pryor's illness and to make an effort to save him. The interest shown has not been on account of the illustrious surgeon, but also because a man so well known should be suffering from a disease that has been pronounced incurable by the surgeons of this country and the most eminent medical men in England, France and Germany.

A doctor connected with the hospital said:

"Never in the history of this country, perhaps with the exception of the dying days of President McKinley, has there been such a gathering of the lights of the medical world around one man, and then without avail."

A physician who came from a distance to give his aid in the dying hours of Dr. Pryor said last night:

"This is one of the isolated diseases for which we seem to have no cure. We do not know the original cause, and accordingly we fail. A man drifts into pernicious anemia by degrees, and it is upon him even before the doctor knows it, and after that there is little to be done. He does not show emaciation, but just weakens and suffers from lassitude, and after that he dies."

"The case of Dr. Pryor," said Dr. MacGuire, "has enlisted the sympathy of many of the leading physicians in this country, and they with the visiting and house staff of St. Vincent's Hospital have been in daily attendance upon him."

A leading pathologist, who is counted among the most able physicians on diseases of the blood in the country, said: "Idiopathic or progressive pernicious anemia is a disease that has always puzzled the medical world. We have never been able to discover its cause."

The doctor said no man who has ever suffered from this disease has recovered, as no means have been discovered to create new red corpuscles. The treatment at present used consists of injections of arsenic and bone marrow, from which the red corpuscles come; massage of the limbs and inhalation of oxygen. These various treatments have been found merely to prolong a patient's life.

HYPNOTISM BLAMED FOR WOMAN'S DEATH

Horace McVicker, Theatrical Managter, Starts Investigation of Stepmother's Last Illness.

CHICAGO, Aug. 27.—Following the receipt of news of the death of Mrs. J. H. McVicker, wife of the famous theatrical manager, mother of Mrs. Edwin Booth, and owner of property which is valued at from $350,000 to $500,000, Horace McVicker, her stepson, has started an investigation which may lead to serious charges being brought at Pasadena, Cal., where Mrs. McVicker died.

Horace McVicker, who is business manager for Ethel Barrymore, is sole survivor of the family. He said: "I am firmly of the opinion that my mother was under a hypnotic influence. I will not venture to state now who created the spell over her or who was responsible for her death. But a thorough investigation will be made. I have telegraphed H. C. Wyatt, in Los Angeles, to look into the matter."

L. W. Condee, the attorney of the estate, admitted that there was room for suspicion, and that an investigation would follow.

FOUR CHANCES FOR VOTER TO REGISTER

Precinct Enrollment Headquarters Will Be Open Sept 19, 20, 21 and 22.

OFFICIALS OBLIGED TO SERVE

Those Who Neglect Opportunities Will Have to Present Good Reasons Later.

For a week the Democrats have been swearing in judges and clerks in the office of the Board of Election Commissioners on the first floor of the City Hall. Today the Republicans joined in. Clerks of both parties swear in judges and clerks and duly designated citizens take the oath to properly discharge their official duties.

There will be no regular registration at the City Hall.

All the judges and clerks have been appointed and notified of their appointment through official publications in the Post-Dispatch. All the judges and clerks notified of their appointment must call at the election commissioners' office and take the oath of office by next Saturday or make themselves liable to three months in jail.

The large number of new election officials are necessary because six must be appointed for each of the 405 voting precincts of the city.

Heretofore there have been only 333 voting precincts, and, consequently, only 1998 election officials.

The new election law went into effect in June, 1903. It provided that the city be redistricted for the next election, and that election precincts be so divided as to place as nearly as possible 300 voters in each precinct.

New Precincts. 102 in Number.

In so doing 102 new voting precincts were established.

The judges and clerks recently appointed for each of these precincts are to serve two years and will receive $4 a day for each day's work. They will also be exempt from jury duty for four years.

The duties of judges and clerks and, in fact, the entire system of registration is changed under the new law.

The new registration will be used for the first time at the election Nov. 8. It will not be used at the Democratic city primaries in October, because the lists will not be perfected by that time.

The successive steps in carrying out the registration will be as follows:

After the election commissioners have administered the oath of office to each of the two Republican and two Democratic judges and the Republican clerk and the Democratic clerk in each precinct, they will make up a list of registration headquarters in each precinct.

These locations will be officially announced in the Post-Dispatch Sept. 16 and 17. These places will be open 12 hours for registration, Sept. 19, 20, 21 and 22, beginning at 8 o'clock. Each person who desires to vote on Nov. 8 must register in his own precinct headquarters during this period.

Must Have Lived in City Sixty Days.

Oct. 21 and 22, any citizen who thinks he has been improperly stricken off or prevented from placing his name on the books, may appeal to the circuit court for redress.

The election commissioners will add to the books at once such names as the court directs.

To be a qualified voter, a citizen must have lived in Missouri one year and in St. Louis 60 days. No length of residence in the ward or precinct is required. If a man moves in on the last day of registration, he may register. If he is duly registered in one precinct he may be transferred to any other by application to the election commissioners' office up to Nov. 2.

On the present registration lists there are about 120,000 names. Secretary Elspermann of the board of election commissioners says the new registration may increase the total to 150,000.

"In my opinion there will be no difficulty in registering that number of names in four days," he says. "The actual registration requires little time. It is only necessary for a judge or clerk to ask a few questions and write in the name and address of the voter on a blank form. There are six officials for each precinct. Six men working for four days is equivalent to one man working for 24 days. One man can certainly register 300 and many more names in 24 days.

"Of course, there may be a good many more than 300 in some precincts. But I do not think anybody will be crowded out."

It is expected that the heaviest registration will be in the precincts nearest the Exposition, where there has been a heavy increase in population since the precincts were rearranged.

Absence or Illness Excuse.

For the guidance of prospective voters the election commissioners have arranged to place a large placard on each registration headquarters, in addition to announcing its location in the Post-Dispatch.

If a citizen is absent from St. Louis at a distance of more than 50 miles at registration time, or if he is ill, he may have his name added to the registration lists subsequently at the election commissioners' office.

At the close of the four days' registration the books will be returned to the election commissioners' office. To have his name added to the books the applicant will be required to make affidavit that he was more than 50 miles away each of the four registration days, if absence is his plea. In case he offers illness as an excuse he must present the certificate of a physician, describing the nature of his illness in other than technical terms.

Oct. 8 the election commissioners will post at each registration headquarters the name and address of the registered voters of that precinct. It may be examined or copied by any person caring to do so. Oct. 14 the judges and clerks of each precinct will sit as a board of revision in their precincts. The registration headquarters will be open in each precinct from 8 in the morning to 8 at night.

Objections to any names on the list may be made then, and the judges and clerks are authorized to strike off any names that they deem should be eliminated. But they are not authorized to add any name.

The next morning the books will be returned to the election commissioners' office to remain until the morning of the election.

"A REAL SERVICE TO DEMOCRACY"

—F. L. Stetson.

Messages of Commendation of the Open Letter to Roosevelt Received From Many Sections.

The following expressions of opinion from many sections of the Union on the open letter to President Roosevelt, printed in The New York World and the Post-Dispatch on Tuesday, have been received:

Real Service to Party.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.

Your powerful presentment of the President upon his own declarations oft repeated in glorification of the war spirit cannot fail seriously to affect the great body of those whose sincere prayer is, "Give peace in our time, O Lord!" Except for a belief in an overruling Providence and that no responsible executive could act as rashly as the President has permitted himself to speak, his candidacy would be hopeless despite his deserved reputation for integrity and his great ability, erratic though it often is. You have again rendered a real service to the Democratic party.

FRANCIS LYNDE STETSON.

Thorough and Complete.

DETROIT, Mich., Aug. 26.

No man can read Joseph Pulitzer's just and terrific indictment of President Roosevelt's record without pride that there is still such a great editor living in the world. It is as thorough and complete as it is convincing and terrible. It ought to make one of the most important and influential documents in this great campaign.

DANIEL J. CAMPAU,
Member Democratic National Committee.

Cannot Be Combatted.

BUFFALO, Aug. 26.

Your review of President Roosevelt's record will surely appeal to the thoughtful men of the country. It comprises an argument against the election of Roosevelt that can neither be put aside nor successfully combated. Vigorous and able in presentation, instructive and forceful in reading, it will undoubtedly be gratifying in results. Not in a spirit of flattery, but in placing credit where credit is due, it must be said that the World is performing a great service to the party and to the country in this campaign.

NORMAN E. MACK.
Member Democratic National Committee.

A Splendid Contribution.

STAMFORD, Conn., Aug. 26.

Mr Pulitzer's editorial on President Roosevelt's record is a splendid contribution to the literature of the campaign and should be in the hands of every thoughtful voter.

HOMER S. CUMMINGS,
Member Democratic National Committee.

Magnificent.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Aug. 26.

It is a magnificent article, covering every point, and to me seems unanswerable.

BRADLEY B. SMALLEY,
Member Democratic National Committee.

Another Great Service.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.

In the forcible and exhaustive presentation of the dominant issue of this campaign—the President himself and his record—Mr. Pulitzer has rendered another great service to the Democratic party.

STEEL BAR BURIED IN CHILD'S BRAIN

Little Daughter of New York Newspaper Man Dying As the Result of a Remarkable Accident.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., Aug. 27.—Grace Minette, the little daughter of Charles G. Minette, a New York newspaper man, is dying in Thrall Hospital here as the result of a remarkable accident.

A heavy steel bar so deeply penetrated her skull that it remained fixed in the fracture it made.

The men who went to her aid did not dare to remove the bar and when she was taken to her temporary home the long piece of steel was perforce taken with her.

The child has been passing the summer at Ballville, near this city. Carpenters are building an addition and little Miss Minette was playing under the beams where they were working. On an upper beam lay the bar of steel, four and a half inches long and weighing four and one-half pounds, one end of which was sharp.

A workman picked up a bar, but it slipped from his hand and falling sharp end down, it struck the little girl squarely on top of the head. It pierced the brain to the depth of two and seven-eighths inches.

TEN THOUSAND AT THE FAIR GROUNDS

The Track Is in Good Shape and Only Five Horses Were Withdrawn Today.

Special to the Post-Dispatch

FAIR GROUNDS RACETRACK, ST. LOUIS, Aug. 27.—The track was in good shape today and a crowd of 10,000 turned out for the races.

The scratches were: Jerry Hunt in the first, Scotch Dance and Claremont in the third, and Amberita and King Court in the sixth.

The track management raised the tariff on pool buyers today to $10 per day, and forced the boys to put up $100 bond. The increased tariff reduced the number of pool buyers from 90 to about 30.

The management has had a lot of trouble with the boys of late. Secretary Hachmister admitted today that four boys had overlayed themselves within the last day or so. The track management made good all bets that the boys failed to pay.

AMERICAN LEAGUE GROUNDS, NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—"Bargain Day," two games for one admission, besides a half holiday, was the magnet that drew the fans in goodly numbers to witness the last two games of the present series as well as the last appearance of the Browns at these grounds for the season of 1904.

Manager Griffith put in Orth and Kleinow as his slab artists for the first game, with a possibility of his going on the slab himself for the second. Hynes and Sugden started the proceedings for St. Louis.

FIRST INNING—For St. Louis, Burkett went out, Conroy to Anderson. Heidrick singled. Wallace quit, Conroy to first. Hemphill fanned. No runs.

For New York, Wallace choked Dougherty off with a quick play to Jones. Keeler singled past Padden. Anderson fouled to Sugden. Elberfeld's splash was heaved to Jones in time. No runs.

SECOND INNING—For St. Louis, Jones lifted to Dougherty. Padden's splash was chucked to Anderson by Orth. Moran struck out. No runs.

For New York, Ganzel was tagged out by Jones. Heidrick gathered in Conroy's lift. Wallace made a quick play of Fultz's bouncer to Jones. No runs.

THIRD INNING—For St. Louis, Orth took Anderson's toss of Sugden's tap. Hynes dropped a safe one over Conroy's lid and was forced by Burkett's stab, Elberfeld to Ganzel. Dougherty could not stop Heidrick's swat. Burkett scored and Heidrick got second. Wallace doubled in Dougherty's territory and Heidrick scored. Hemphill hit the first ball pitched for a clean single to center, scoring Wallace, and Jones kept the swatting going by slashing another over second. Padden walked, filling the bases. Orth couldn't find the plate for Moran and Hemphill was forced to score. Sugden went up for the second time and flied to Keeler. Four runs.

For New York, Wallace and Jones sent Kleinow back. Orth beat out his lick to Jones and forced by Dougherty, Padden to Wallace. Keeler tripled to center, scoring Dougherty. Anderson belted to the left field fence for two cushions and Keeler scored. Heidrick made a good running catch of Elberfeld's boost. Two runs.

FOURTH INNING—For St. Louis, Dougherty got Hines' fly near the foul line. Elberfeld and Anderson retired Burkett. Fultz lost Heidrick's lift in the sun and the batter got to third. Wallace doubled to left, scoring Heidrick. Hemphill's double to center scored Wallace. Jones singled to center and Hemphill scored. Padden died, Orth to Anderson. Three runs.

For New York, Pelty went into the box for St. Louis. Ganzel boosted to Hemphill. Heidrick was under Conroy's high one and Wallace heaved Fultz's bounder to Jones. Griffith relieved Orth for the Highlanders. No runs.

FIFTH INNING—For St. Louis, Moran flied to Dougherty. Sugden gave Keeler a chance. Conroy heaved Pelty out at Anderson's corner. No runs.

For New York, Kleinow was easy for Hemphill. Wallace gobbled Griffith's short fly back of second. Dougherty hit through Padden for one bag. Keeler bunted safely. Anderson flied to Heidrick. No runs.

SIXTH INNING—For St. Louis, Elberfeld got Burkett's lift near the foul line. Heidrick fanned. Wallace to Anderson. No runs.

For New York, Elberfeld fanned. Padden made a good stop of Ganzel's jumper, but could not find it. Sugden got Conroy's foul up against the grandstand fence, Ganzel going to second. Fultz out, Wallace to Jones. No runs.

SEVENTH INNING—For St. Louis, Hemphill flied to Fultz. Jones out, Elberfeld to Anderson. Padden fanned. No runs.

For New York, Padden made easy work of Kleinow's grasser and tossed it to Jones. Pelty fooled "Old Fox" Griffith with three drops. Dougherty singled to right. Keeler out, Pelty to Jones. No runs.

KENTUCKIAN FATALLY STABBED

Former Employe in Revenue Office at Covington Dies—Man Charged With Crime Arrested.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CINCINNATI, Aug. 27.—John C. Lansdowne, formerly employed in the internal revenue department of the Covington (Ky.) district, dragged himself several hundred feet after receiving a fatal stab wound near the heart, and died soon after reaching the threshold of his home in Covington.

He died declaring that John Lieberth, brother of George Lieberth, collector of internal revenue in the Covington district and a veteran Republican leader, had stabbed him. Lieberth was arrested within an hour.

The accused man declines to discuss the mater further than to declare that he did not stab anybody.

About a year ago, Wallace Lansdowne, a brother of John, filed with President Roosevelt charge of "pernicious activity" in politics against Collector George Lieberth, and these charges are now being investigated.

"I am satisfied," Wallace Lansdowne said, "that the intention was to kill me. My brother John and I resembled each other greatly in facial expression and in size."

THE ORIGIN, STAGES, DEATH DEALING COURSE AND CERTAIN CURE FOR

BLOOD POISON

My Serum Specific Treatment for Blood Poison is the Only Remedy Known to absolutely cure the disease, removing every trace of poisonous taint and rebuilding the entire system from the damaging effects of Mercury and Potash, leaving the patient with new flesh, new blood, new bones and in perfect health.

CHAS. A. DUFF, M. D.
I Am a Blood Poison Specialist, Not a Pretentious "Cure All."

My method of curing Blood Poison is by a specific Serum that I introduce into the blood by subcutaneous injection (hypodermic) and internally, and by its antagonism to the virus of blood poison the taint is ejected from the body as well as the counteraction and removal of the mercury and potash poisoning. My serum treatment reorganizes the corpuscles of the blood, disorganizes, neutralizes and expels all poisons from the system, and the corpuscles are renewed with fresh, pure blood, which supplies the tissues that rebuild the entire human organism, so that the whole body is restored to its normal size, strength and soundness. I can offer no better evidence of the reliability that I claim for Specific Serum than the many I have cured, some of them bedfast, body a shield of blood-poison sores, loss of eyesight, hair and eyebrows, or some vital organ, locomotor ataxia, and apparently doomed; and after completing my course of treatment they are entirely cured, robust and healthy, without a symptom ever recurring at any time. The positive effects of Specific Serum are noticeable immediately, as the hair resumes its growth, all manifestations of the disease disappear, the patient begins to increase in weight by the addition of sound, healthy flesh; the skin gets clear and rosy by being supplied with poisonless blood, and in ordinary cases in one month after commencing the victim feels that his burden of disease is lifted. It drives the poison out of the bones, so that all aches and pains are no more.

CURE OR NO CHARGE.—Absolutely no charge unless satisfaction is given. Every patient is given a written guarantee to refund every dollar paid for services in a specified length of time if they do not receive a complete, lifelong cure and entire satisfaction, and my well-known financial standing is sufficient evidence to anyone that I am entirely responsible for any contract that is not fulfilled.

Consultation Free, Confidential and Invited, both at office and by correspondence. Successful treatment by mail. Terms are always made to suit the convenience of any one applying for treatment and very reasonable charges. Do not treat elsewhere until you have investigated my methods and terms. LATEST NEWS AND NOTES FROM THE WORLD OF S

TRENNELL PUT UP PLUCKY BATTLE

Stayed Eleven Rounds With Santoro in Best Local Fight in Many Months.

Nic Santora, the little dark-skinned bantam from Chicago, knocked out Kid Trennell of St. Louis in the eleventh round of the main event of the best fight show that the West End Club has offered in many weeks last night.

Kid Howe of Chicago beat Jimmy Rafferty in two rounds and of the second preliminary and Frank Goodman, who was substituted for Young Fitzsimmons in the curtain raiser, was stopped by Kid Mellvaney in the third, after he looked like an easy winner in the first.

Trennell is a local boy and is the best that St. Louis has produced for some time. He fought a game and gallant battle against a most experienced and in every way better fighter, and received the greater applause when he left the ring. The knockout came as the result of a long process of face and body punches climaxed by a sharp right to the chin.

The only occurrence that jarred on the success of the bout was Trennell's claim of foul in the first round, when he dropped to the floor twice under the prompting of some killing stomach blows. The second time he went down the gong saved him, but he claimed that he was struck foul and Referee Johnny Regan lengthened the time between the rounds to permit a medical examination. No evidence of a foul blow was found and Trennell was ordered to the mark. The rest refreshed him and he came back strong. On strict ruling Regan might have given the bout to Santora, but otherwise his handling of the evening's bouts was excellent.

His long stay with Santora is due chiefly to his clean-strain courage and Brooklyn Tommy Sullivan. Twice he came back to his corner in such shape that it did not look possible for him to stay through the following round, but the cunning red-topped boxer brought him around and sent him out with instructions that kept him away from much that Santora intended for him.

LABOR DAY PARADE DOWNTOWN

Central Trades and Labor Union Announces That Celebration Will Take Usual Form.

The published statement that there will be no downtown Labor Day parade this year has aroused protests from the Central Trades and Labor Union.

In this connection President J. F. Wade and Secretary David Kreyling have issued a signed statement. In part they say:

"Last Sunday there appeared in a St. Louis newspaper an article stating that the concentrated forces of organized labor would be gathered at the World's Fair grounds on Labor Day in celebration of their holiday, and that instead of a downtown parade the parade would take place at the World's Fair. To these statements we take exceptions and offer statements in rebuttal to the effect that there will be a downtown parade on Labor Day, promising to be larger than ever, composed of organizations affiliated with the Central Trades and Labor Union, numbering 65,000 members.

"The parade will form in the usual manner and at the usual place at 10 o'clock Monday morning and march through the downtown streets to Lemp's Park at Thirteenth and Utah streets. There a picnic will be held. William M. Brandt, a prominent local speaker, has been engaged as the principal speechmaker * * * We feel that by congregating in a park or picnic grounds, where we can be closer associated with one another and be served with union goods by union help, it will be greater amusement, a greater and better feeling for one another and a greater demonstration, thereby celebrating Labor Day in a befitting manner, and as intended by its founders."

ANGLETA BREAKS MANY POOL BOYS

Fighting Each Other for Business, They Laid 15 to 1 Against the Winner.

The pool boys at the Fair Grounds are having a battle royal these days. While the track was operating a free gate the crowds justified the employment of over 100 messengers, but since the rule of distributing free passes indiscriminately was abolished the army of pool men created by the free gate have been fighting each other for business.

Pool buyers pay the track a daily fee of $5 for the exclusive privilege of placing wagers for spectators in the stands who do not care to mingle in the betting ring crush and jam. The messengers ostensibly make their money out in tips, but in reality they act as bookmakers and lay against the horses. Each boy has a number and the track management forces them to give a bond in order to protect the people who give the boys money to wager.

Realizing some time ago that there were too many boys in the stand, the track management raised the daily fee from $3.50 to $5. This move was expected to reduce the number of messengers, and it did cut down the number of pool buyers from 140 to about 75. The pool buyers now doing business at the track fight desperately for business. Yesterday several of them were so eager to get in money on the first race that they laid as high as 15 to 1 against the winner, Angleta. The filly's average price in the ring was never better than 6 to 1, so that the people who bet with the pool buyers got all the best of it.

Three pool buyers had to cease operations after the race, having squandered their working capital on Angleta.

At least ten pool buyers have been put out of business laying against winning long shots within the past week.

INDIAN AND HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS PLAY BASKET BALL

Via American De Forest Wireless Telegraphy.

POST-DISPATCH BUREAU, WORLD'S FAIR, Aug. 26.—Unbeaten basket ball teams of girls will line up at Kulage park, Newstead and Lee avenues, Saturday afternoon, Sept. 3, when the World's Fair Indian girls basket ball team open the St. Louis season with the High school girls Alumni team.

The members of the Alumni team have a record that reaches back into their school days and not once have they known defeat.

They have played in close games when a ball misthrown would have turned the tide, but the hard work of each player made success theirs.

The Indian girls have played a number of exhibition games at the Fair and several weeks ago went to Belleville, where they played against the O'Fallon team.

Another important entry is that of Alex. Grant, whose name is included in the list sent in by the New York Athletic Club. Grant, who has won numerous distance championships, is the two-mile champion, having the record of 9:27. Ray Ewry, another entry of the New York A. HOW MUNROE CAME TO HIS FEET, NOT KNOWING THAT THE FIGHT WAS ENDED AND THAT HE WAS VANQUISHED

Sketched from telegraphic description.

"Munroe finally struggled to his feet, where he stood unsteadily. Jeffries, not knowing that the count was over, started another swing, but Referee Graney interfered and sent the victor to his corner."

TURF TALK

Barney Schreiber won two purses at the Fair Grounds yesterday with Angleta and Otto Stifel. Bucceleuth, another one of Schreiber's horses, figured to be one of the contenders in the third race, but he stumbled at the start and then stepped in a hole and was thrown out of the race at the half-mile ground.

Sysonby, the Futurity favorite, was named for Foxhall Keene's favorite shooting box in England. Sysonby's sire, Melton, is a fashionably-bred English horse. Sysonby's dam was sent to England to be bred to Melton and the colt was foaled at the Keene breeding stud in Kentucky.

SCENES IN AND AROUND THE RING

Special to the Post-Dispatch

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27.—The hopeful managers of Jeffries and Munroe who had dreams of a house exceeding $50,000 in box-office representation will have to hunt up new dream books. It was apparent early in the evening that there would be no necessity for the services of the house shorers' union to prop up the walls of Mechanics' Pavilion for fear they would bulge outward because of the pressure on the inside.

There is no denying that the interest in the fight was great, but it was not a producing interest. Five blocks away from the great building in which the gladiators battled for the heavyweight championship of the world a crowd of 20,000 blocked the Market street cars in front of the newspaper bulletin boards. It was the crowd that wanted to know how the fight would come out, but was not game to spend money to be eye witnesses of the outcome. Throughout San Francisco the impression appeared to be that the only way to lick Jeffries would be to tie his hands, making him fast to a stake and let a dozen husky men caress him with clubs. And the outcome showed that the judgement of the crowd was considerably to the good. Fortunately for the bank rolls of the rival knights of the mitt this antipathy did not extend to the country districts convenient to San Francisco. It is probable that half the great crowd that banded itself high above the arena was made up of persons whose addresses could not be found in the San Francisco city directory.

GREAT MUNROE GATHERING.

This outside crowd was a Munroe gathering. It came to San Francisco prepared to shout for the miner and argue how he should put Jeffries down and out, but from the amount of money wagered most of the outsiders bought round trip tickets at home and had concealed about their apparel only enough for food and drinks. Nevertheless they were on the ground early and what they lacked in speculative initiative they made up in lung power.

LITTLE MONEY UP.

More money changes hands in able-bodied poker games at the Bohemian Club than was shifted to different owners in the betting on the fight at the sporting resorts Friday afternoon. The odds held strong at 100 to 35 and there is no record of any $100 bets. Rumors of rash wagers of $1 to 35 cents were run down and found to be unfounded.

By the time the doors opened spectators were wandering around offering $100 to $30 on Jeffries. Quite a few bets were made at even money on the proposition that Munroe would last 10 rounds. Maj. Doyle of New York sent a commission to the ringside of $100,000 even that the fight would go the limit, but the bet went begging, because the major insisted the money should be posted in pennies.

Jeffries was the first to arrive at the pavilion. He rode up from the ferry from Oakland in a carriage, and when he got out, chewing gum, he glanced over the crowd in waiting and smiled his youthful smile. If he felt any apprehension about going into the ring with the heaviest man he ever fought there was no trace of the apprehension in his impassive face.

As the ponderous form of Jeffries disappeared into the pavilion there was heard in the crowd the honk of an automobile, and a long, low, rakish skidoo wagon drew up at the entrance. Out hopped Munroe, white of face, but calm. The fighters repaired to their dressing rooms off the main entrance to the left, and got ready for the fray. Jeffries put on black tights, harmonizing with the hirsute growth that flourishes upon his skin from head to foot like alfalfa in an irrigated field. Munroe donned tights of green. Both men wore the national colors entwined in their belts.

Mayor Schmidt was there and so was former Mayor Phelan. To indicate a judicial recognition of the affair Police Judges Kerrigan, Frixt and Humphreys occupied seats close to the ring. Patrick Barrett, the prosecuting attorney, had a coupon for a seat in his pocket and possession of the seat also. Judge Lawler of the supreme court, one of the greatest admirers of Jim Corbett, was in a prominent position. The judge spent six weeks with Corbett previous to the Fitzsimmons fight in Carson, and traveled to New Orleans to see Jim trim John L. Sullivan. He had no opinion to express previous to the fight last night, but it was natural to suppose he would be pleased to see the man who had vanquished Corbett vanquished in turn.

Munroe was the first to enter the ring. He was extremely pale. The air was chilly and he wore a long overcoat. When he stripped it was seen that physically he was a perfect specimen so far as outside appearances went. But there was a nervousness about him that made those who had bet on his remaining at front of Jeffries for 10 rounds swallow convulsively.

Just before entering the ring Jeffries was informed that a famous sootsayer, known as the "Frenchman," Harbin Springs, had dreamed he would lose in 13 rounds. He smiled and caressed a rabbit's foot that had been handed him by an admirer. The man was as clammy as a wet mackinaw.

When he threw off the robe that had covered his body as he made his way to the ring there was a long-drawn exclamation of astonishment. He was certainly big, enormously big, a veritable hairy giant, but there was no sign of flabbiness on the flesh on his bones. He was a mountain of muscle on a foundation of bone.

Jeffries was seconded by Billy Delaney, Joe Kennedy and Jack Jeffries. "Kid" McCoy, Tim McGrath, Tim Sullivan and Frank McDonald were in Munroe's corner. Kid McCoy was introduced to the audience and expressed a modest desire to box any heavyweight alive with the exception of Jeffries. Jack Johnson, a large negro, allowed that he would fight the winner. His appearance did not arouse the crowd to any enthusiasm. McCoy got a great reception.

There was the usual talk in the ring between the referee and the principals. Munroe was extremely nervous by this time. When the gong sounded he started convulsively as he softly advanced toward the center of the ring, but Jeffries was as impassive as a cigar store Indian.

JEFFRIES SENT MUNROE DOWN AND OUT; 2 ROUNDS

From the Tap of the Gong in the Battle for the Heavyweight Championship of the World, the Boilermaker Pounded His Opponent as He Pleased.

BY JEFFRIES' TRAINER, DELANEY.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27.—"I expected the fellow to put up a better fight. I would be pleased if Jeffries would now step out of the ring for good. Before they can bring up another man who will be able to make some kind of a showing two or more years may pass. Two years of idleness will spoil any man and in the event that Jeffries has to wait that long I shall advise him never to fight again."

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27.—James J. Jeffries knocked out Jack Munroe, the Butte miner, in the shortest and most one-sided championship fight on record. Munroe was counted out in the second round, while groveling helplessly on the floor of the ring.

Jeffries knocked the miner down three times in the first round, went smiling to his corner and came out again briskly to finish his antagonist with a couple of punches in the second.

Munroe never showed a trace of championship form. He fought like the sorriest amateur that ever entered the prize ring. While sitting in his corner before the beginning of the skirmish he looked pale and worried. His seconds, "Kid" McCoy and Jim McGrath, talked to him and tried to take his attention, but he sat staring across the ring at his gigantic opponent as a hypnotized sparrow might stare at a rattlesnake. As his seconds drew on the fighting gloves Munroe became even more ill at ease.

Jeffries, leaning over the ropes, talked and laughed with Billy Delaney, his manager and chief second. He looked clean cut and fit to fight any man in the world for any kind of a title. It was evident to the spectators that he regarded the whole affair as a private picnic.

MUNROE DANCED NERVOUSLY.

As soon as the gloves were tied the men were called to the center of the ring for final instructions. No time was lost. They returned to their corners immediately and the bell rang.

Both came to midring with a bounce. Munroe wore a serious expression and danced nervously about. Jeffries looked at him for a moment, then moved in. Munroe feinted in an aimless manner and led with his left hand. Jeffries laughed as the blow fell a foot short.

The giant footed it nimbly about Munroe, who pivoted slowly to meet the attack that was to come. Jeffries looked as fast as a lightweight, faster even than he did in that famous fight last August with Jim Corbett.

Jeff feinted, and Munroe stumbled forward. The champion missed a straight right-hand smash for the body, Munroe blocking with crossedarms. Even with this guard the blow jarred the miner to his heels. He unwrapped himself and clinched for his life. Drawing his right arm back Munroe tried to plunge his fist into the champion's stomach, but Jeff stopped the blow by catching Jack's elbow with his left hand.

Jeffries was chewing gum and the expression on his face was that of the bored lookout at a faro bank. He broke the clinch, stepped back a foot, and surged in again with a sudden left hook for the jaw.

Munroe dropped to his hams with a crash that jarred the platform.

He rose quickly with a dazed expression on his face. Jeffries was on top of him in an instant. Before Munroe could find his balance Jim punched him straight on the mouth with his right, drove him back, followed for a single step and swung his left fist into the miner's ribs.

Munroe gasped and doubled up. Jeff followed his advantage instantly. He drove the miner reeling to the ropes, punching him again and again in the body. Munroe was too slow to get away, although he half turned and tried to sidestep. Jeff smashed him to the floor with a left hook on the chin.

Munroe stayed down for eight seconds, and then rose slowly. His eyes were blank, like the eyes of a fish. Jeff knocked him down again with another left hook. Munroe staggered to his feet. Jeff started a vicious swing, but the bell rang. Stopping his blow in midair the champion turned laughing to his corner.

Munroe did not land a single blow in this first round. As he wobbled toward his corner "Kid" McCoy jumped into the ring, seized him by the shoulders and shoved him into the chair.

In his corner Munroe had the appearance of a thoroughly beaten man. The interval of rest was all too short to allow him to recover.

CLINCH STARTS SECOND.

The second round started with a clinch. Munroe broke away and tried a swing for Jeff's head, but got a counter on the mouth that made him spit blood. He put his head down and bored in, hooking furiously at Jeff's stomach, but the champion smashed him relentlessly about the body with both hands, fighting him away. A hard right in the pit of the stomach floored the miner. He rose with blood flowing from his mouth and ears.

Jeff closed in. A fearful left-hand swing on the face rendered the man from Butte helpless and all but unconscious. He crumpled up and sank slowly to the floor. At the side of the ring the timekeeper, watch in hand, counted off the fatal 10 seconds.

Munroe struggled gamely to rise but could not. Jeff stood waiting, sneering at his beaten rival.

Munroe finally struggled to his feet, where he stood unsteadily. Jeffries, not knowing that the count was over, started another swing, but Graney interfered and sent the victor to his corner.

When Munroe came to a realization that the fight had gone against him he arose, and going over to Referee Graney began to protest. The huge crowd understood his protesting, and a mighty volume of jeering and hissing evidenced the sentiment of the spectators, many of whom had placed money on the miner that he would stay at least double the number of rounds before the champion.

From the time the bell rang for the commencement of the battle to the time that the count of 10 had been uttered against Munroe, only 4 minutes and 45 seconds had elapsed.

The fight demonstrated, if nothing else, that the world has yet to produce a pugilist who will displace James J. Jeffries as champion.

A great throng witnessed the contest, estimates of the number in attendance ranging from 7000 to 9000, and it is believed that the gate receipts will approximate $35,000.

The miner's showing was a disappointment to those who had the confidence that he would at least repeat in some degree his performance in Butte when Jeff failed to put him out in four rounds. In the first few moments of the opening round he made some show of aggressiveness, but that he was thoroughly scared was evident from the manner in which he broke ground and awkwardly endeavored to guard himself when Jeff advanced toward him.

JEFF DIDN'T TRY.

Jeff did not extend himself at any time of the short contest, nor did he deliver a blow that required the full strength of his powerful arms. The shots that sent the miner down were of the short-arm variety that found easy lodgement on the jaw of the man from Butte, but there must have been terrific impact behind them, which was shown by the way the 200 pounds of flesh went down with a thud on the canvas.

When the men retired to their dressing rooms Jeff was surrounded by his friends and intimates who congratulated him on the speedy outcome.

So utterly crestfallen was Munroe over his crushing defeat that he begged to be hurriedly taken away from his dressing room, and he was quickly taken out of the building.

Referee Graney stated after the fight: "Jeffries is the greatest fighter that ever entered the ring, and he put up the best fight that I have ever seen. I don't know where they are going to find a man to beat him."

CHARLEY WHITE SAYS JEFFRIES OUTCLASSES ALL THE FIGHTERS.

BY CHARLIE WHITE

The Noted Referee in Pugilism.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The men fought under straight Marquis of Queensberry rules, which I consider the best to battle under. I think that Munroe was favored somewhat by the conditions. His great strength, bulkiness and knowledge of wrestling should have given him a slight advantage over Jeffries.

This was offset by the champion's superior size, weight and strength, and also his style. He combines quickness of attack with a remarkable defense that no man has as yet succeeded in breaking.

It was announced that Jeffries' condition was superb. In my opinion no fighter that has ever entered a ring would have classed with the champion when in first-class condition, such as he was in, for instance, when he fought Fitzsimmons at Coney Island in 1890.

He has shown in his battles since then that he simply outclasses all the fighters of the present day when in condition.

Jeffries showed good judgment in not meeting Munroe when he was not in condition to put up his best fight.

As for his being afraid and a "quitter" that is rank nonsense. Nobody with any sense ever believed charges of that sort.

ANALYSIS OF ROUND 1

Round 1. Jeffries showed from the very start that he was the master of the situation and could feint Munroe into knots. From the description, the miner must have shown up like a big amateur.

The relief showed that Munroe was no fit opponent to be matched for the championship and proved that Jeff was right in his statement that he was only fooling with the miner when he allowed him to stay the four rounds at Butte. Jeff said that he would show Munroe up and prove to the public he could not stay four rounds with him. Jeff's terrific right did the business for the miner in this respect, and Munroe can consider himself unlucky that he didn't go out in the first round and save himself from further punishment.

Jeff could have knocked him out in this round, but probably he wanted to make sure of his man, feeling that it was only a cakewalk.

ANALYSIS OF ROUND 2

Round 2. From the beginning of this round it was only a question of when Jeff would put in the finishing blow.

Referee Graney is to be commended for his humane action in stopping the bout when he did. If he had not there surely would have been a murder committed.

Munroe's showing all the way through the fight was simply pitiable, and he should forever give up any idea of championship laurels or any high honors in the prize ring.

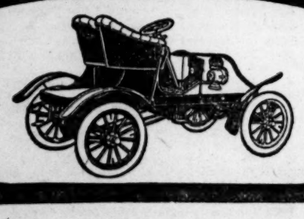

Judging from his fight last night, I think he would be just as easy for Fitzsimmons, the old hero of the prize ring.

From a pugilistic point of view the fight was a farce. I think as far as any other aspirant for championship honors is concerned he would meet with the same fate at the hands of the greatest big man the prize ring has ever known.

UNBEATABLE FIVE YEARS.

It is useless to match anybody against Jeffries under present conditions. If he takes good care of himself Jeffries will surely be unbeatable for the next five years. Jeffries will confer a favor on the other heavyweight pugilists by retiring from the ring an undefeated champion.

FRANKLIN

How's this for air-cooling?

Here is a hot story from a hot state:

Dr. H. A. Hughes, City Health Officer of Phoenix, Arizona, writes on June 13th, 1904:

"I think I have a record breaker for you. Yesterday, while the thermometer registered 119 degrees on the street and 110 degrees at the Government office, I made a trip in my Franklin of 10 miles in 35 minutes over an ordinary country road. After visiting my patient I returned to town.

"It has been said by some here who have other makes of machines that mine would have to lay up in hot weather. You can tell by the time made that I did not have to stop, and if there was a single shot missed I do not know it."

The only doubt that anybody ever has about the Franklin is: Will it cool its cylinders in summer?

Everybody who has ever ridden in a Franklin sees at once how easily it rides—no jerking or spluttering or unnecessary fuss—how sensitive it is to control and how simple to manage.

Those who regularly use the Franklin know how rarely it gets out of order, how easy it is to get at and fix when it does, how long it lasts, and how big a money's-worth it is.

Boys are said to be fighting in the Russian ranks. Well, war is boyish in the last analysis.

Marriage is not a failure in Missouri. A pair just united at Butler had both been married three times before.

The administration organs are making such a racket that they are very likely to arouse suspicion as to the strength of the cinch.

Why we paid Spain $20,000,000 for what we had won, why we paid Panama an unnecessary $10,000,000, and why we swatted the Filipino and kissed the Cuban are interesting "conundrums" for the spellbinders.

IS ST. LOUIS TO BLAME.

The Chicago Evening Post quotes statistics given out by railroad officials "showing that trains have taken more visitors to that city (St. Louis) than were brought to Chicago in the same time in 1893."

The Evening Post thinks this is good evidence that the discrepancy in attendance at the St. Louis Fair as compared with that at Chicago "is due to the lack of enthusiasm on the part of St. Louis people themselves."

The inference is not wholly justified, since the population of Chicago in 1893 was double that of St. Louis in 1904. But there is enough truth in it to suggest sober reflection among St. Louisans who are ambitious for the city.

The greatest of the support received by World's Fairs has always come from the city where the Fair is located and the country immediately surrounding it. It was so at Philadelphia in 1876, at Chicago in 1893, and it must needs be true of the St. Louis Fair.

The responsibility is primarily upon the home people. It is inconceivable that any citizen is indifferent to the great enterprise which sheds so much credit upon St. Louis and every inhabitant thereof. We had the energy to make the Fair. Have we not interest enough to make its success commensurate with its worth?

Let every man and woman reflect. The Fair is for you—for your pleasure, instruction and profit. Directly and indirectly it makes for the advantage of each and all. It should be valued as the highest opportunity.

The news from Georgia, Colorado and Chicago should be kept from our Filipino subjects as much as possible. They may begin to suspect that there are imperfections even in the management of world powers.

RIVER GAMBLING CONTINUES.

The story of Miss Anna Nieman, who tried without avail to punish a river gambler who had cheated her escort, is merely a pointer. The Post-Dispatch is receiving letters almost daily, complaining that the swindling games on certain of the river steamboats go on unchecked. One writer says that the reports of this swindling which get abroad deter many strangers from visiting St. Louis.

It is extraordinary that the owners and managers of the steamboats cannot see that they are seriously injuring their trade by permitting the reputation of their boats to be damaged in this way. It may be that the World's Fair crowds furnish plenty of traffic at this time, in spite of the conditions which prevail on the boats. But there is the future to reckon with. The people of St. Louis will be the permanent patrons of the excursion boats, and they will expect these boats to be conducted in an orderly manner, with due regard to law and safety.

But the authorities and the police should not relax their efforts to put a stop to the lawlessness. The interests of the city and of the World's Fair demand that this evil be wiped out. Make the river boats safe and respectable. They perform a public service, and their managers cannot defy public opinion with impunity.

One lesson of the eastern war is that soldiers and sailors should wear clean clothes while being shot at, as bullets and pieces of shell carry with them into wounds the microbes that inhabit an unclean uniform. This lesson comes not from the Russians, but from the Japanese.

FIRE ESCAPES ON SCHOOL BUILDINGS.

Building Commissioner Heimburger's request that warrants issue against the members of the school board for failure to comply with the law respecting fire escapes on school buildings brings the controversy to a practical issue.

The school year is approaching, but no steps have been taken to provide the means of escape prescribed by law.

The excuse given is that fire escapes on the outside of buildings are not equal in efficiency to the stairways in case of fire.

Experts differ on all questions. It is conceivable that an interesting controversy might be arranged touching the difference between black and white—which is which. But in cases involving public safety and order practice should be regulated by authority which should not be questioned or defied.

The opinion of the board members is not pertinent. The law requires fire escapes, and the law should prevail against opinion. This seems to be the sensible, seemly view, and the board [illegible] to adopt.

NEW YORK WORLD'S EDITORIALS TODAY

THE NEW ROOSEVELT.

Secretary Taft in his Montpelier speech made yesterday has given us a new Roosevelt who seems almost too good to be true—a Roosevelt that, like charity, vaunteth not himself, is not puffed up, suffereth long and is kind, seeketh not his own, doth not behave himself unseemly and is not easily provoked.

The secretary of war assures us that he never met a man in authority who had "less pride of opinion," or who "was so amenable to reason" or "so willing to sacrifice a previously formed opinion."

Sometimes, to be sure, he is hasty and impetuous and too sudden on the trigger, but these faults are the result merely off "the limpid character of his nature."

All of this is not news. Mr. Roosevelt's willingness to sacrifice a previously formed opinion has been much commented of late, notably in his change from a free trader to a moderate protectionist, and then to a stand patter; in his easy toleration of Platt and Quay and Addicks and Lou Payne and the like; in the relaxation of his holy crusade against the trusts—in a score of things which the willingness to sacrifice a previously formed opinion has wiped up the floor with that limpid character of his nature which impels him to strenuous deeds.

Still, it is a very pretty picture that the secretary has drawn of his chief. For Mr. Roosevelt's sake and the country's sake we hope he will be able to live up to the testimonial that Mr. Taft has prepared for him, but it must grind the man of blood and iron to have to see himself presented as a man of tea and taffy.

DISTINCTIONS WITH A DIFFERENCE.

The manner in which Judge Parker's letter on the Philippines was received by the local press affords an interesting study in the art of interpretation.

The Sun, while wholly disapproving of the view expresssed by Judge Parker, frankly says, what we are sure ninety-nine out of a hundred readers of the letter thought, that "it leaves nothing to be desired in the way of positiveness and clarity."

The Herald says as the World did, that Judge Parker's letter "is as clear and unequivocal as his 'gold' dispatch to the St. Louis convention."

The Tribune thinks that his view "still needs interpreting."

The Times—in illustration of the saying that "he who is convinced against his will is of the same opinion still"—persists in its notion that the only essential distinction between the two candidates is whether we shall promise the Filipinos independence "now," as Judge Parker says, or at an indefinite future time, as it holds that President Roosevelt is in favor of doing.

To our mind there is a radical difference between the two. Judge Parker avows himself in favor of the "political and territorial independence" of the Philippines. He is "in hearty accord with that plank in the Democratic platform which advocates treating the Filipinos exactly as we did the Cubans," and to "set them upon their feet, free and independent, to work out their own destiny."

If there is anything in the deliverances of Mr. Roosevelt that is "identical" with this, we should like to have it cited. He says "we have already given the Philippine people a large share in their government, and our purpose is to increase this share as rapidly as they give evidence of increasing fitness for the task." Manifestly a "share," however large, is not freedom and independence. "self-government by the Filipinos assisted by Americans," which is as far as the President goes in defining Republican policy, is not freedom or independence.

Our forefathers had self-government "assisted" by King George, but they were not satisfied, and declared their independence. President Roosevelt may be looking toward the independence of the Philippines "50, it may be 250, years" from now, as the Times suggests, but he does not say so. If our contemporary can see "no essential distinction between the two candidates" except as to the time to make the promise, we cannot compliment it upon its discernment.

Our honored friends, Dr. McKelway (Brooklyn Eagle) confesses that Judge Parker did not take him by surprise.

"We were," he says, "at no loss to comprehend what was signified by the phrase as used in the speech of acceptance. Long before there was any talk of the nomination Judge Parker's views with reference to the archipelago were known by the Eagle."

In view of this we must be permitted to ask the editor of the Eagle if it was dealing fairly by his friend to say, in commenting upon Judge Parker's speech of acceptance, that in case of his election "instructions sent from Washington to the Islands in the far East will undergo no material modification." Would not a promise of "political and territorial independence," made to them on the 5th of March next, be a "material modification" of the imperial policy? Knowing Judge Parker's views, does the Eagle think it was just to him or to the public to leave his ambiguous phrase unexplained in order, as it said, "to get for Judge Parker the votes of all who like the course of McKinley and Roosevelt toward those American dependencies, but who would bring about a change of executive administration—for other reasons?" Would not the silence which the Eagle urged have been a policy for getting votes under false pretenses? We said then that "whatever the result in attracting or repelling votes, the World would have the Democratic candidate be true to Democratic principles, and honest and plainspoken in defining his position," and we are very glad that Judge Parker agreed with us.

The Formation of Character.

Character is felt largely through the eye and ear. The thousand voices in nature, of bird and insect and brook, the soughing of the wind through the trees, the scent of flower and meadow, the myriad tints in earth and sky, in ocean and forest, mountain and hill, are just as important for the development of a real man as the education he receives in the schools. If you take no beauty into your life through the eye or the ear, your nature will be hard, juiceless, unattractive.—From Success.

WHAT WOULD YOU DO TO ADD TO THE SUCCESS OF THE WORLD'S FAIR?

Limit your suggestions to two, in each letter, and do not exceed 250 words.

Have Roman Chariot Races.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Why not make a circus maximus of the Stadium and have real chariot races there every afternoon? The place is big enough. The races could be made genuine as sport and accurate as historical pictures, color and all. Put up the balls and the fishes, and get a half-dozen clattering chariots banging around in the circus in a greuilling race for cash prizes, and the country will be struck by its novelty. I believe it would help. They could be made a feature for October.

BEN HUR.

Let St. Louis Do Proportionately as Well.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

You are printing letters of how to increase the Fair's gate receipts.

I will tell you not only "how," but add that we did it.

W. E. Powell, editor of the News, inaugurated "Bunker Hill Day," and we turned out over one-half of our entire population Aug. 24. If St. Louis will do as well Sept. 15 you will have a big attendance—and your citizens have no $1 railroad fare to pay.

A CITIZEN OF BUNKER HILL, ILL.

Bring the Old-Timers Together.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I would suggest for St. Louis day that there be a grand gathering of all those that attended the first World's Fair ever held in this country, which took place in Philadelphia in 1876. I would like to hear from others who, like myself, were there, who probably could offer some good plan whereby the Fair committee might make some arrangements to make this a notable gathering. Later on I may offer some suggestion myself. At present I wish to hear from others.

OLD SUBSCRIBER.

St. Louis People Should Work Hard.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

To make a success of the Fair in point of attendance, and also to increase the receipts, the business men and citizens of St. Louis must take hold of the matter themselves. I would suggest that each business man and each citizen of St. Louis send out a chain of letters to their different friends with the request that these friends send a letter to their friends. By this means in a very few days you will have a chain of letters flying all over this country that would call attention to the great World's Fair. Now, I understand there is issued by the press and publicity department a little map, and I presume that department would have enough of them printed, if they have not already, to give any citizen one of these maps and they enclose it in that letter. This would be a very cheap way of advertising and I think would be a very successful way. Then the business men should get after the railroads and try to persuade them to come down in the fare. Now if they would make a rate, say for 30 days, of $8 a round trip for a radius of 250 miles from St. Louis, and other distances in proportion. Make these tickets good to ride on any of their cars. This would stir up travel that would be very astonishing. From our town—30,000 inhabitants—we have a pretty fair World's Fair attendance, but the rates are not inviting for the people to go, as the $8 rate from our town is only good for seven days, and then have to ride in the coaches, which takes two days to go and come and only gives them five days at the Fair.

Now the citizens of St. Louis are doing nobly in regard to taking care of the strangers. There are thousands of first-class rooms in your city that are renting from 50 cents to $1 per night. No person ought to grumble at such prices as these, and your eating houses in the residence portion of the city are very reasonable indeed, but some of your hotels, I am sorry to say, are not doing the manly part by the Fair. The writer, while at St. Louis, had occasion to stop two or three nights at hotels, and he went to the hotels he had been in the habit of stopping at. Rooms that he paid $1 a night for before the Fair he was asked $2, $2.50 and some as high as $3 for at this time. These fellows will be remembered by the traveling public after the Fair is over. Of course the gentlemen who have planned and are pushing the Fair to its end have made some mistakes, but we do not think that these mistakes should be credited against them. The Chicago fair in 90 days before its close was in the same condition, that the St. Louis Fair is in, but the business men took hold of the matter and pushed it for all it was worth and the result was the last 90 days doubled the number of attendance that there was the first 90 days.

Now business men and citizens of St. Louis, take off your coats and roll up your sleeves, take hold and in the last 90 days make a success of your Fair financially and in point of numbers. Do this for the glory of the Greater St. Louis.

WILLIAM RITCHIE.

Correct False Impressions.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

To increase the attendance at the World's Fair I would suggest—

ADVERTISE

Not only the magnificence and grandeur of the Fair, but let the world know that the reports being circulated as to exorbitant charges and excessive cost of visiting the Fair is

FALSE.

The business men of the city can aid very largely in this direction by having a neat circular printed setting forth these facts and inclose same in their regular mail. I don't think any would object to so doing were they solicited, but unless they are asked to do so few will take it upon themselves to act.

A. F. J.

Two Good Suggestions.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The way to make the World's Fair "boom" is to advertise it in the country newspapers. This policy should have been adopted and carried out to the letter by the Louisiana Exposition Co. from the very beginning. Why was it not done? It is not too late yet. Treat people right when they come to St. Louis. Don't overcharge or rob them for a night's lodging; make them feel at home when they do come. Welcome them and show your hospitality. The World's Fair is the greatest and most beautiful and instructive show on earth.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

MAKE ST. LOUIS A SEAPORT.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Just as soon as the people at large ascertain the fact that St. Louis is susceptible of and is going to be placed on the map as a seaport mart, then will the people flock to the greatest Fair on the earth by the hundreds of thousands, combining business with pleasure, and all St. Louis business men have to do is to lend a helping hand to the movement already on foot, organizing a million dollar business company to operate a line of steamboats, and this will aid the right kind of legislation to properly improve these rivers so that ships will come and go to this port.

POLITICAL ASSESSMENTS.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

A few days ago I have seen in the paper that the police officers will be assessed again for the Democratic campaign fund. My husband has been an officer for many years and has seen some hard service and in all these years we were not able to raise a fund to buy a home for our family. I would like to ask you for right and justice sake to protest against this political robbery. Taking in consideration how a police officer has to earn his salary by being out on duty for twelve hours in cold winter nights' storm and rain; has to deal with all sorts of hoodlums, risking his life many times. Then when pay day comes around besides all political expense and forced insurance, he is compelled to pay nearly one-fourth of his salary into the Jefferson Club. You may think how a mother with a family of little children feels at this unjust and shameful demand. I will close this letter with the hope to see it published in your paper.

A POLICEMAN'S WIFE.

GARBAGE RECEPTACLES.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

In this evening's issue (24th) of your paper I noticed the letter signed by Incognito in regard to neglected garbage. Well, I want to say for the life of me I can't understand why your city officials permit the condition of garbage in this large city of over 600,000 people to be exposed open in any and all kinds of boxes and baskets, and a great many places have no pretense of either, but thrown on the ground, street, as well as alley.

I am not one of the residents, but a merchant from another city visiting the Fair, also to buy goods. Now, in our city, which has about 120,000 inhabitants, each and every property owner is compelled by the city ordinance to have placed on his premises a water-tight cover receptacle, which naturally is fly and rat proof. Since I have been here I honestly have not seen one clean alley. Why is it?

J. B. DOULGAS,
A World's Fair Visitor.

GIVE THEM ALL A HOLIDAY.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I am one of an army of clerks who are employed in the smaller establishments in the retail lines and whose only chance to see the Fair is on an occasional holiday when the stores close for a half day, my longest working day being Saturday from 7:30 a. m. to 11 p. m. Now Mr. Editor, could you not use your columns to endeavor to induce the smaller merchants in the hat, shoes, furnishing goods, etc., lines to agree to give us the full day on St. Louis day at the Fair. I am sure that no business loss will result if they all close. While a half day is better than none, it gives us but a small chance to see the Fair, as by the time we get home, eat dinner, dress and get to the Fair it is 2:30 or 3 p. m., as half a day means keeping open until 1 o'clock. Vacations among retail dealers employing from one to five clerks are very rare, I for one not having a vacation in ten years.

Kindly aid us in this matter and you will earn the gratitude of a vast number of men who would appreciate the beauties of our great Exposition if only given a chance to view it.

"SALESMAN."

WOMEN IN STREET CARS.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I was much interested in communication from "Visitor" in your issue of Aug. 23, advising men, from a standpoint of chivalry and impression to be made upon our visitors at present time, as well as increasing attendance at our great Fair, to give up their seats to ladies, and was also much pleased at your own favorable editorial comments of the article in the same issue. While "Visitor" asked men to give up their supposed rights, put them aside, as it were, till at least our visitors had come and gone, A. B. C. in your issue of Aug. 25 makes reply to "Visitor," arguing that men have worked 364 days in the year, and that on the 365th day a "generous, big-hearted boss" had given them a day off, so they were as much entitled to seats as ladies.

If "A. B. C." would take the trouble to watch street cars on Sunday, he will find just as many men sitting in cars while ladies stand as he would on a weekday when the man, as he suggests, might be "footweary from the mental labor performed."

Allow me to join in appeal of "Visitor" that gentlemen give up their seats in street cars to ladies at least until the Fair is closed.

GENTLEMAN VISITOR.

NEED FOR ETHICAL INSTRUCTION.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

The able letter of S. Sigvaldson, headed "The Labor Problem Considered," is timely, interesting and brimful of good suggestions. I think, however, his first proposition—"The Christianizing of the Masses"—is impracticable in this country, owing chiefly to the absence of religious teaching in the schools and partly to the poor example given by so many so-called Christians—both clerical and lay—in everyday life.

What no one could reasonably object to, however, would be instructions in ethics for people of all ages and conditions, using the school buildings and churches for the adults on certain evenings. Means could be devised to make the evening gatherings attractive and the best quotations on life and morals from the best teachers the world has known should be read and distributed. The selections should include the best from pagans, Jews, Christians and even infidels, so that all classes of our various citizens would be satisfied.

As Mr. Sigvaldson expresses, the laboring classes will have to find out what they need and improve themselves morally and otherwise. Until they learn to have the ability and integrity to cooperate they will have to submit to the captains of industry as the latter's price.

WHAT THEY NEED.

From the Warsaw (Mo.) Enterprise.

If we had the car of the World's Fair commission for over so short a time, we would make it resound with the suggestion that one of the best ways to get a boom for the greatest of fairs would be to get the address of the lessors of tens of thousands of rooms, who would be willing to charge only $1 a day for rooms, whether they were occupied by one person or more. Then there would be families and bunches of friends go where one person goes now.

There is a knowledge that before the Fair tens of thousands of good lodging rooms could be had in St. Louis at 50c per night or $2.50 or less a week for one person.

The human kind is of the nature that often resents extortion. While members of a family, or a party of friends, go to the Fair and pay $2 or $4 a night for a 50-cent room, they are apt to be in a humor somewhat like the quadruped with a red flag flashed before his eyes. Their influence is not good with their friends who have not been to the Fair. What is needed is to have people go to the Fair in twos, threes, fours and their multiples instead of singly.

THE COST OF FIRING A CANNON.

From Leslie's Weekly.

Some idea of the cost of modern warfare can be arrived at by taking a Japanese warship like the Kasuga or Nysshin and calculating the number of shots she would discharge. The first-named ship carries four cannon which cost $38,000 each. One of these guns can fire two shots per minute, and every shot costs $400; thus in five minutes these four cannon can discharge 40 bombs at a cost of $16,000. The smaller cannon cost $17,000 each, and every shot they fire means an expenditure of $170. They are very rapid, and it is estimated that in five minutes the 12 cannon could discharge shot to the value of nearly $20,000.

Sending a Man by Mail.

From the Chicago Journal.

Many persons will be surprised, doubtless, to know that in England a person can be sent from one part of the kingdom to another by mail—just as if he was nothing more than a mere letter.

One day a man called at St. Martin's le Grand with the object of consulting a directory and finding the address of a customer who lived in a remote part of Balham. He was not acquainted with the locality, and was most anxious to see his customer at once. These facts he mentioned to an obliging clerk behind the counter.

He was at once informed that he could be sent to the required address by registered mail at a fee of 6 cents a mile. The man gladly accepted the offer, and in less than a minute found himself in charge of a smart messenger boy, who very soon guided him by the shortest route to his destination.

The boy carried in his hand a printed slip with the description of his "mailed parcel" under the heading, "Article required to be delivered," and this he required the man and customer to sign before he left the latter's house.

A Wiser Plan.

"Don't you think the expenses of running a campaign might be curtailed?"

"Certainly," answered Senator Sorghum. "It would be no trouble to curtail 'em. But the real trick is to expand 'em and at the same time restrain idle curiosity concerning disbursements."—Washington Star.

BATTLE NEAR BENNINGTON, VERMONT!

Notable Victory for three Amicans.

Louisan.

Bennington, Vt., Aug. 16, 1777.

Gen. John Stark, a veteran of Bunker Hill and the hero of Trenton, achieved a great victory near here today over a body of the enemy, consisting mostly of veteran Brunswick chasseurs, Hessians, loyalist rangers and about 100 Indians. Our troops lost less than 100 killed and wounded, while the enemy lost all their artillery and nearly 1000 men in killed, wounded and prisoners.

The victory is the more important as it defeats a raid sent out by Gen. Burgoyne for the double purpose of getting supplies for his army on its northward march up the Hudson, and at the same time ascertain the sentiments of the people, he having been told by loyalists and deserters of our stores at this place, and Philip Skene, the principal Tory near here, having assured him of the strong loyalist feeling in this part of the "Hampshire Grants"—in both of which he has today been grievously disappointed.

Owing to the hostility of the people of New York state, Burgoyne was practically out of supplies for his men and horses, and a timely supply from Canada being doubtful, he selected Lieut.-Col. Baume, a trusted and accomplished German officer, to make this expedition at once, and gave him a select corps of about 500 men.

Proceeding with the utmost caution Baume had left Burgoyne's main army on the 11th, and on the afternoon of the 13th had reached the township of Cambridge about 16 miles from here. In the meantime news of Baume's approach had preceded him, and our people from far and near have been coming together to resist the invaders; and Baume, learning of this through his scouts, sent word back to Burgoyne that though the Tories were flocking to him, yet the patriots were gathering in such numbers that he would need more troops before being able to capture our supplies at this place.

The news of the march of Burgoyne's main army up the Hudson had aroused the spirit of our people to do their duty in defense of their country, and John Langdon, president of the assembly, tendered the state 70 hogsheads of Tobago rum, $3000 in gold, and offered to borrow as much more upon his silver plate, all to be used in equipping troops.

The assembly promptly ordered out the militia and gave the command to the veteran, John Stark, he who had hurried with the farmers to Boston after the fight at Lexington; had met the British at Bunker Hill; had distinguished himself at Trenton; and who, though denied promotion in the Continental army owing to the petty jealousies of our congress—yet with his patriotism unimpeached, had offered his sword and his services to his state in driving the invaders from her soil.

The men answering the state's call to serve under Gen. Stark came from the best people of the "Hampshire Grants," and Stark's brigade consisted of 1500 militia under Cols. Nichols and Stickney, while Cols. Seth Warner, Herrick and Williams reported with companies of Green Mountain boys. The entire force which gathered to resist invasion was not far from 2200 men. Warner's men had marched all night through the rain from Manchester, Vt., so earnest is their patriotism.

Gen. Stark heard a few days ago of Baume's approach and marched instantly to support Lieutenant-Colonel Gregg, who had been detached the day before to skirmish with and delay the enemy. During the forenoon of the day before yesterday, the forces came within sight of each other, and Baume at once took up a commanding position overlooking a bend in the Walloomscolk river.

A heavy rain prevented us from attacking them yesterday, but this morning Gen. Stark moved to engage the enemy on three sides at once. Cols. Nichols and Herrick, with about five hundred men, made their way through the woods to the left and rear of the enemy, their approach frightening the Indians off the field. Cols. Stickney and Hubbard engaged some detached parties, while Gen. Stark, with our main body, attacked Baume in front, his words upon seeing the enemy being, "See there, my men!—there the redcoats! Before night they're ours, or Molly Stark's a widow!"

For two hours the fight continued, our troops pressing upon the veteran enemy with the steadiness and persistence of men used to battle, at times dashing up the hill at the earthworks, in spite of the warm reception given them. Nearly surrounded on three sides, by this determined conduct of the militia, the British and Germans finally gave way, and attempted to escape by their only road of retreat, but in this they were foiled, and the entire body surrendered, Col. Baume having been mortally wounded.

Greatly elated by our success, our militia scattered to plunder the abandoned camp, a violation of discipline which came near losing us our victory, for just at this time Col. Breyman arrived with reinforcements for Baume from Burgoyne. All that had been won would have been lost had not Gen. Stark sent Col. Warner with a fresh regiment to the rescue of our discomfited and disordered men. Col. Breyman was driven back by Warner, the cannon, which we had just captured from Baume, being turned against Breyman, who escaped after considerable loss.

When night closed, victory for us was assured, we having taken four cannon and nearly seven hundred prisoners, besides many killed and wounded, with a loss to ourselves of less than one hundred in killed and wounded—a victory which will do much to raise the military spirit of our patriots and enable Gen. Stark and his gallant officers to organize our undisciplined, though brave militia into a fighting force able to successfully resist the veteran English and German troops of Burgoyne.

THE CLUBWOMAN'S VIEWS

By THE SOCIETY GIRL

"I SEE," said the Society Girl, "that the ladies who live in the World's Fair Grounds are complaining about the noise being kept up so late. They lose their beauty sleep."

"And think," said the Club Woman, "how some of them need it! But have you noticed what an increase there has been in complaints against St. Louis lately, since they have begun to have 'Missouri Weeks' and 'Smithville Days' and reunions of this and that family? I couldn't understand it, until Mr. Brown, who was raised in the country, explained. He said it was this way:

"The county paper announces that next week Thursday will be Hay Center Day at the World's Fair, and that every one is invited to go. Well, when Thursday comes every one in Hay Center except the station agent accepts the invitation. The railroad has made a half rate for the round trip, and this is proof to Hay Center that it is going to be a cheap trip. If a railroad will sacrifice that much, everything else ought to be free.

"Well, when they get to Union Station and find it is four miles to the Fair Grounds, and that it will cost a nickel to get there, of course there is grumbling. Mr. Brown said he heard of one man who said he'd be 'by-goshed'—wasn't that an awful expression?—if he'd pay it. So, after the other excursionists had gone on the street cars, he loafed around outside the station, and a man with a carriage saw him and asked him where he wanted to go. He was awfully pleased, and he told the man so when they got to the Fair. The man said 'Three dollars, please.' After the policeman had come, the excursionist explained that in his town it was the custom to give a man a lift if you had a team. Well, he'd brought only five dollars, and he was afraid to go in the Fair with only two, because he didn't know what it would cost to get out. So he walked back to the station and took the next train home. Of course, his interview in the Hay Center Argus was caustic.

"And Mr. Brown said that the cabal about high-priced meals originated this way: He said that the younger male element of the town didn't care to see the Fair, but came to have a good time. So when they got to Union Station they said good-by to the others—looking real mysterious and devilish. And after they had looked at the tall buildings, the penny-in-slot picture machines, and had walked through the Planters' Hotel lobby, they got hungry. So they went to a saloon and bought a glass of beer each and 'waded into the free lunch,' whatever that means. And, when the barkeeper told them that looking at their backs made him lonesome, they got sore. Don't men use queer expressions? Anyhow, it seems that they went home and wrote to the paper that to get anything to eat in St. Louis one was expected to spend money.

"But Mr. Brown says that the prize kicker is THE MAN WHO USED TO LIVE HERE. Things were all right then, but they're all wrong now. He is the man who brings his little wife, who never was in St. Louis, to view the places with which he used to be familiar. Naturally, he can't show her all of them."

"Why not?" asked the Society Girl.

"Well, of course, some of them have been torn down."

"But why," asked the Society Girl, "should the ladies who complain about World's Fair noise remind you of visitors who say St. Louis robs them?"

"I suppose," said the Club Woman, "that all the boosts will come next year, when every one who came, in talking with those who didn't, will open the conversation with, 'When I was at the World's Fair——.'"

Her Attorney Says She Will Recover Health First and Then Move to Home in Washington.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Mrs. Maybrick has been deluged with offers from lecture bureaus and magazine syndicates, but will not consider any of them. All these propositions came to her through her attorney, Samuel V. Hayden of this city. On his desk when he reached Washington he found a great mass of business propositions of various kinds offering inducements to Mrs. Maybrick to appear before the public.

"None of these," said Mr. Hayden, "will be shown to Mrs. Maybrick, and under no circumstances will she consider them. What she desires and needs is rest and recuperation, although she is in better health than is generally supposed.

"One letter I received offered Mrs. Maybrick $500 a week for a course of lectures of nine weeks, with the proviso that if this were not enough I should name a price that would be acceptable. Offers for magazine articles on any subject she may select have also been received."

Mrs. Maybrick is now in the Catskills with a wealthy family, Mr. Hayden says, the members of which have always taken great interest in her.

"It is her intention," he said, "to fully recuperate and then she will take up her residence in Washington, but when she will come here I cannot now state."

FINANCIAL NEWS.

RISE IN ST. PAUL RALLIES THE MARKET

Close Is Steady and Slightly Higher on Active Covering by the Shorts.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—Under the influences of several adverse features this morning the opening on Wall street found prices slightly lower.

The statement that the Union Pacific and Missouri Pacific interests are cutting freight rates against each other for steel products to western points had a decidedly bearish influence, and the report that a fight between the U. S. Steel Corporation and the Colorado Fuel and Iron Co. for business in the western section was exceedingly likely was also unfavorably received.

Selling for local account was noticeable in the London market before opening here and declines of ⅛ to ½ were recorded at that center. Consols came unchanged on both accounts.

Statements from the principal mercantile agencies are in the main favorable, the tendency towards improvement noted being attributed almost entirely to the favorable general crop conditions. Pittsburg reports concessions being made in big steel contracts by the larger companies and further inductions in this line are likely.

The market in the early trading became highly professional and business was exceedingly light. The attendance on the floor was small, many of the brokers preparing to see the Futurity, which is run today.

St. Paul was the strong feature in the early trading and advanced a point by 11 o'clock. The stock sells ex-dividend on Sept. 1, 3½ per cent, and traders are of the opinion that this issue will look cheap around $150 per share.

The tendency of the general market was unaffected by the strength displayed in St. Paul and the trend of prices was slowly downward.

Twenty-six reporting railroads for the third week of August show an average gross increase in earnings of 3.26 per cent, compared to an increase of 4.59 per cent for 16 roads published yesterday, the comparisons being made with the same period in 1903. While 11 roads for July show an average net decrease of 5.26 per cent.

It is stated that at the meeting of the stockholders of the Ontario & Western the present management will have sufficient stock to control and unless some adjustment of the present difficulty is made, the contest for the dissolution of the voting trust controlling the property will be decided in the courts.

As stated yesterday the Canadian Pacific will issue $25,000,000 new stock, to be used for betterments, equipment and the corporate needs of the company. The present stockholders will probably be given the right to subscribe to 20 per cent of the new issue at par, and the rights will be worth in the neighborhood of $5 per share.

The influence of a further rise in St. Paul and a quiet grain market was sufficient to cause a minor rally in the late trading, and the earlier losses were recovered and small gains generally recorded.

The publication of the bank statement showing a decrease in surplus reserves of $1,237,675, a decrease in loans of $117,200, and a loss in cash of $1,804,600 was considered favorable as the currency movement for the week indicated a loss in cash of $5,000,000.

In the last few minutes of trading short covering gave to the market the appearance of more activity and strength. Reading was lifted a point and under this influence prices closed steady and in most instances slightly advanced.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—London prices for American securities were quoted lower and the local market today opened sympathetically off with losses of ⅜ and ⅝ in some cases. St. Paul, Atchison, Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific and Norfolk & Western led the decline. Trading was quiet in the specialties and Amalgamated Copper was rather well held.

Additional slight declines were established before the selling was checked by the bidding up of St. Paul. That stock was lifted from 152¼ to 153¾ in short order, but while the demonstration checked the general decline there were no vigorous efforts made to rally other stocks. Chesapeake & Ohio, Metropolitan Street Railway, St. Louis, Southeastern & Kansas City, and Southern preferred showed losses at one time of a point, which were partly regained. At 11 o'clock prices were on the down grade. St. Paul was utilized again in the second hour as a lever to advance the market. Subsequently, the spirited demand for Reading and the favorable bank statement contributed to stiffen prices. St. Paul touched 154¾ and Reading rose over a point. The market generally recovered to yesterday's closing level.

The closing was firm.

Overheated Stove Started Flames in Manufactures Building.

Fire caused $600 damage in the Manufactures building at the Fair at 1:30 o'clock this morning. An overheated gas stove in the drying room of the leather exhibit of J. P. Mathews of Philadelphia, near the center of the building, caused the trouble.

The fire was discovered by Private Watchman James Harrington. Before it could be extinguished it had burned and twisted $500 worth of finished and unfinished leather goods and broken a plate-glass window worth $100.

QUIET SESSION IN LOCAL STOCKS

Trading in the General List Is Inactive and Price Changes Are Small.

STATE NATIONAL IS HIGHER

This Issue Makes a Sharp Gain in the Transfer of a Small Lot.

The session of the local stock exchange today was exceedingly quiet. Business was limited and price changes were small.

The traction issues were only traded in in a very small way, Transit selling ⅛ lower on the first sale but closing the session at unchanged figures on sales at $10.50. United Railways preferred was also unchanged at $54, and the bonds of the company were steady at $80.75.

Trading in Missouri Trust receipts was made for the first time today, a small amount selling at $128. In the balance of the trust and bank stocks, State National Bank was the only seller, five shares selling at $166, an advance of over 4 points from the sale last recorded.

In the miscellaneous department Central Coal and Coke common was the only seller, advancing ¾ of a point on the transfer of 25 shares at $63.25.

A slight investment demand was again apparent in the bond list and although the sales in this class of securities were light prices on the general list were very steady. Sales were made in Brewery Association 6s at $96, and East St. Louis & Suburban 5s at $98.25, and this concluded the business for the day.

WHEAT ALONE HAD STRENGTH

That Cereal Was Erratic, but It Closed at a Gain in Price for the Day.

CORN AND OATS DECLINED

Harvesting Returns From Northwest Bullish—Foreign Markets Higher—Weather Favorable.

WHEAT—Although Minneapolis, head crop-killing center of the Northwest, broke loose at over 1c advance, other domestic markets hung back this morning and soon declined. As it was last day of the week there was probably profit taking to a large extent. In the home market offerings exceeded demands and after selling ½c higher a decline of 1⅛c made, then reacting on better buying. December opened with sales at $1.09½ to $1.09¼, sold off to $1.08⅜ and back to $1.09. May opened at $1.11¼ and offered later at $1.10⅞. September opened at $1.07¼ and bid up to $1.07⅝@1.07⅝. Foreign market came strong, with generally good advances, Liverpool gaining 1@1¼d, London 1d, Budapest 1½c, Berlin ⅜c and Paris ¼@½c. Weather in the Northwest was favorable, though cooler across the line. Receipts were 135,000 bu in the home market, against 64,000 bu one year ago.

A decline to $1.08½ followed the early rally, but again reacted, though the feeling very nervous and unsettled. Threshing returns from the northwest were bullish and a decrease in the visible probable, which led to a good deal of buying, though realizing sales free. Dec. sold late up to $1.09¼ and closed at $1.09⅛@1.09¼ bid. May was offered at $1.10⅜ and at close $1.11½ bid. Sept. was offered at $1.06⅞ and closed at $1.07⅝. Primary receipts were 773,000 bu, against 692,000 bu one year ago, and shipments 386,000 bu, against 197,000 bu last year. Clearances in flour and wheat were 54,900 bu.

Cash market—Lower and slow. At decline soft winter sold freely, but hard winters very dull. By sample, delivered—No. 2 red at $1.10 west and $1.10½@1.12 east side; No. 3 red at $1.06@1.09 west and $1.07@1.09 east side; No. 4 at 96c@$1.05, according to quality; rejected at 95c@$1; no-grade at 93c; No. 2 hard at $1.06@1.08; No. 3 hard at $1.01@1.04; No. 4 hard at 97c@1.01.

CORN—Abnormally low temperatures for season of the year prevailed throughout the corn belt, but otherwise conditions favorable and nothing in the way of crop complaints heard. Liverpool had declined ⅛@¼d after opening ¼d lower. These, with the decline in wheat, caused so much selling of corn this morning that the price went off ¾c. December opened at 48⅜c and sold down to 48⅛c. May offered at 47⅛c. Receipts here were 44,100 bu, against 31,600 bu one year ago.

Following the early decline there was little recovery, the market ruling weak as Chicago greatly depressed by heavy selling. A large line for St. Louis account, it was said, was sold out there. Dec. was offered here at 47⅞c, closing at 48⅛c. May sold at 47c and 47⅛c bid at close. Sept. offered at 51¼c. Primary receipts were 455,000 bu, against 427,000 bu one year ago, and shipments 85,000 bu, against 506,000 bu last year. Clearances were 124,000 bu.

Cash market—Lower and dull; limited demands. By sample, delivered—No. 2 at 52½@52¾c; No. 3 at 52@52½c; No. 2 white at 52½@52¾c and to go out, 53½c; No. 3 white at 52½c.

OATS—Weakness in all grain affected this market, especially as receipts were [illegible] bu, against 62,900 bu one year ago. Only trading was in May at 35⅛c, ⅜c decline—later selling at 35½c. December offered at 33½c.

Such was the selling pressure later that Dec. sold late at 32c, no buyers showing until that reached, and May sold at 35⅛c. For Sept. 32c was bid. Primary receipts were 548,000 bu, against 516,000 bu a year ago, and shipments 104,000 bu, against 235,000 bu last year. Clearances were 10,800 bu.

Cash market—Lower and very dull. By sample, delivered—No. 2 at 33@33½c; No. 3 at 32@32½c, and colony at 33@33½c; No. 2 white at 35@35½c; No. 3 white at 34@35c; No. 4 white at 32@33c.

RYE—Nominally lower at 70c for No. 2 and 68c for No. 3.

Trade Topics.

One of the crop experts who has been touring the Northwest investigating spring wheat conditions sums up the situation in the Northwest as follows: "In all my experience as a crop expert I have never seen so poor a spring wheat crop as this year. Conditions over a large section of our Northwest and Manitoba are bad. There are sections where the crop is so poor threshing machine men will not make any contracts. They go into the fields for a day and then stop because there is too much straw and too little wheat to make it pay." He says he never saw a crop so hard to estimate in bushels, but it is said he has made an estimate for his employers of 135,000,000 bu for the three states.

The strength in America yesterday was reflected in Liverpool at the opening to extent of advances of ⅞d, but December eased off ⅛d on the expectations of large arrivals of wheat cargoes off coast. This loss was more than regained later on covering by shorts. Closing prices ⅛d above opening in September and ⅜d above in December. Corn opening was ¼d higher in sympathy with wheat, but the nearby month broke ⅞d and the distant ½d on forecast of large American shipments the past week to Liverpool.

Broomhall cables that wheat area just harvested in Great Britain is officially estimated at 1,375,000 acres, against 1,581,000 in 1903, and oats at 3,253,000 acres, against 3,140,000. Total number of animals slightly less than in 1900 although pigs increased, sheep decreasing.

Comstock, Minn.—Two threshing rigs in operation in this vicinity. One outturn tests 46 lbs. and the other 47 to 49 lbs. to the bushel. Yield about 7½ bu per acre.

H. V. Jones of Watson & Co. will make his detailed report of American wheat next week. That he will not place the total yield above 500,000,000 bushels is evident from a dispatch sent by him from Minneapolis.

A decrease of 2,500,000 bu is reported for week in Minneapolis wheat stock. If this is correct there should be a very considerable decrease in the visible reported Monday. A year ago it increased nearly 500,000 bu.

German official report states condition of crops on Aug. 15 was 2 to 5 points better than for whole of Prussia, but oats 12 per cent and potatoes 18 per cent below condition a year ago. The Prussian crop report gave condition of wheat on Aug. 15 as 76 per cent and rye as 78 per cent.

Broomhall predicts world's shipments on Monday next will amount to about 8,000,000, or a little less than last week. Europe taking about 7,200,000. He predicts there will be a fair decrease in the amount of breadstuffs on passage.

Expert limits on oats are said to be bordering very close on to the price in the St. Louis market. There is over 300,000 bushels No. 2 oats held in store here. A St. Louis grain house has received a letter from a Budapest firm stating that Austria-Hungary would have to import feed, its foder crop being so short.

Minneapolis wires: The threshing machines are making the Northwestern Miller and Price Current look like 30 cents on their estimates on wheat crop. Some reports here are six bushels to the acre and weight 40 pounds to the bushel. At this rate it will take an acre of wheat to make a barrel of flour.

FLOUR—A generally poor business reported. Domestic orders disappointing and no export sales possible. Soft winter in wood: Patents, $5.50@5.60; straights, $5.25@5.35; extra fancy, $5.10@5.20; clear, $4.40@4.70; low grade in jute sacks, $3@3.50. Hard winter in jutes: Patent, $4.80@5; straight, $4.55@4.65; clear, $3.80@4; low grade, $2.75@3.20.

MILLFEED—Slow and easy, as most buyers holding off. Basis east track and in 100s bran salable at 88c for hard and 90c for soft winter. Mixed feed at 90c to 93c; mids at $1.05@1.10. Sale 100 tons hard winter at 93c. At mill bran jobs at 92@95c and ships at $1.10@1.15.

HAY—Steady for best grades and clover firm. Low and medium dull. On east track: New timothy, $12 for choice, $10@11 for No. 1, and $8@9.50 for No. 2, $6@7 for low grades. New clover, $12@13.50 for No. 1 and $10@11 for No. 2. New clover mixed at $[illegible].50 for No. 1 and $8 for No. 2. New prairie, $8.50 for No. 1,

WALL STREET NEWS ON PAGE SIX.

$7.50 for No. 2, and $6@6.50 for low grade.

STRAW—On track, wheat and oats, $4@4.50; rye, $6@7.

FLAXSEED—St. Louis—Lower, at $1.17 bid spot and to arrive, prompt shipments. Chicago—Northwestern, $1.25; southwestern, $1.18; Aug. and Sept., $1.18.

PORK—New standard mess, f. o. b., closed at $11.50.

LARD—Choice steam and east side closed at 6.32½c; kettle-rendered, 6¾@7⅝c.

BACON—Boxed s. e. meats, jobbing: Breakfast bacon, 10½c for heavy to 14½c for choice light; hams, 11½@12½c; California, 8¼c; N. Y. shoulders, 8½c. Plain smoked boxed lots, jobbing way: Extra shorts, 8½c; c'ribs, 8½c; short clear, 9c; bellies, 9½@10½c; plates, 8⅞c; standard backs, 9⅛c; higher on orders.

COUNTRY LARD—Quotable at 4@5c.

OLEOSTEARINE—Nominal at 7c.

DONOVAN COMMISSION CO. ON THE MARKETS.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 27.—People who bought wheat on the early break were paid off good winnings at the close, but coarse grains had too many of their backers dismounting and they put so much on the market for sale that prices just had to let go. My advices from the Northwest show spring wheat is threshing out a crop that yields mighty small to the acre and mighty light in weight. These returns are certainly bound to get their work in and never more so than when the shorts are most numerous and certain. They are lining up that way now and battling away at the market whenever it looks soft. Whenever they get a fall out of it you want to invest in a few 5s and then watch them get counted out quicker than the Butte miner was. Buying wheat on breaks is easy Jeffries money. This corn can't keep up this falling down stunt and I believe is cherry ripe for a purchase. The quitters have about all quit and the market is in good shape for a reaction. Buy both corn and oats.

MISSOURI WEEK RECORD BREAKER

Great Crowds Visit World's Fair Today for the Final Day's Ceremonies.

MANY DELEGATIONS ARRIVE

Mayors Bring Large Representations From St. Joseph, Columbia, Fayette and Other Cities.

Missourians were again crowding the World's Fair by thousands today, the last of the week officially known as Missouri Week. For six days they have responded gallantly to the demands made by the different parts of the state that each town and county might have a crediable showing.

Including Thursday the attendance for the four days of this week was 510,631. It is estimated that the attendance Friday and today will average at least 125,000 each day, which would bring the estimated total of the week's attendance to the record figure of 760,361. In comparison with the figures for last week, Missouri week shows a great gain. The total attendance for the first four days of last week was 427,960.

The great majority of those who came the first of the week remained during the entire six days, while each morning saw additional crowds arriving. Today, St. Joseph badges were in greater number than either this being known as St. Joseph Day of Missouri Week.

Mayors Head Delegations.

Mayor W. E. Spratt, of St. Joseph, arrived in St. Louis this morning, heading a very large delegation from his city. Other mayors to arrive with delegation were F. W. Niedemeyer, Columbia; J. M. Settle, New Franklin; C. L. Crews, Fayette; E. L. Dildine, Cameron; Dr. W. W. Edgerton, Chillicothe; F. M. Chapman, Louisiana, and D. S. Thomas, Palmyra.

While there was no set program of addresses at the Missouri building, the visitors all congregated there and exchanged greetings, a few impromptu speeches being made, after which the crowds separated to take in the Fair.

St. Charles did itself proud Friday in matter of attendance and celebration. It is estimated by Mayor Edward Poule, of St. Charles, that 4,000 of the 6,000 residents of that place were within the Exposition gates Friday.

FILIPINO BOY DETECTIVE HAS HIS CHOICE OF PROFESSIONAL CAREERS

Master of English and Tribal Languages Is Offered Opportunities to Remain in America.

Sisto Gremfil, the Filipino boy of 16 years whose detective work captured the Visayan village ticket handlers, now held on charges of defrauding their employers by reselling tickets already used, has applied to the teacher of the Philippine School at the Fair for more advanced studies, and the bright little fellow's new books arrived Thursday.

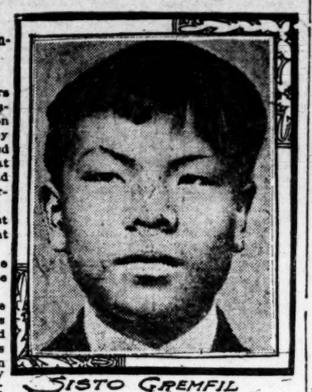

The studies in the school are of the most primal order and not chosen for a student of Sisto's unusual intelligence.

The boy was born in Luzon, and came to the United States from Manila a little more than six months ago.

Sisto has traveled over all the Philippine Islands, and speaks eight different dialects of the native language. He has been called upon many times to be interpreter for his countrymen, and several weeks ago when a Margyian Negrito was taken seriously ill, Sisto was the only person on the Philippine reservation to whom the man could make his wants known.

Sisto is especially fond of history and arithmetic, but has complained that the teachers in the reservation school wouldn't give him any history and their mathematical sums were too easy.

The boy often expresses the desire to study law or medicine, but first of all he wants to go back home and visit his mother. It has been more than two years since she has seen her son. One of the physicians at the Philippine hospital wants to take Sisto to Europe with him after the Fair is over, but the little fellow has not consented to give up the plan to go home.

SISTO GREMFIL

Chief of Police Paul M. Milliken of Cincinnati and Cal Crim, a well-known Cincinnati detective, were at the Visayan village when Sisto made the capture, after the proprietors and guards had tried to unearth the plot. Both took a great liking to Sisto and offered to take him back home with them to make a plain-clothes man of him. Sisto speaks English readily, and one evening during the meeting of the National Educational Association he was found entertaining a group of eight lady school teachers.

When Dr. Mary Walker was at the Fair, Sisto and she were great friends.

NORTH--SOUTH--EAST OR WEST, THE SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH IS BEST

And Here's a Timely Word or Two of Features Sparkling, Fresh and New—Each Chosen for Its Mission Plain, to Teach, Amuse and Entertain.

Of pictures bright and beautiful, with stories that enthrall,
Next Sunday's Post-Dispatch will have the very best of all.
'Twill tell of the Olympic Games beginning here this week,
When athlete-champions of the world their crowning laurels seek;
Of the oldest city in the history of man,
Now found anew and brought to view for all the world to scan;
And of a fourteen-year-old bride whose family records show
Three generation of child-brides, all happy here below;
And of a strange discovery by a black inventor made,
Who now, right in Missouri, for his work is richly paid;
And of the theft and strange return of jewels rich and rare,
With not a clew to how 'twas done, by whom nor when, nor where;
And of World's Fair libations, how fortunes have been spent
For champagne and for beer in exposition merriment.
And how grim old Geronimo has smoked the pipe of peace
With a little St. Louis maiden in a truce that will not cease;
And of all the strange and curious things now gathered close at hand.
The treasures rich and wonderful of many a distant land;
And of the funny doings of the funniest folk on earth.
In the Post-Dispatch's Funny Side, the favorite home of mirth.
And——well, the list's too long to print of features fresh and new.
On every page will they engage the reader's grateful view.
Till again all join in saying, as its charms their fancies catch,
"The best of all newspapers is the Sunday Post-Dispatch!"

MIDNIGHT SCREAMS MYSTIFY CLAYTON

Two Men, Two Women, an Auto and Terrified Shrieks Arouse Citizens in Middle of Night.

Screams that rent the air at midnight set the people of Clayton to guessing, and they are still wondering what the disturbance was all about.

In the first place, there was an automobile. In this automobile there were two men and two women. The screams were of feminine origin, and the time was midnight Thursday.

Harry Wengler heard the cries and ran into the street with a shotgun, thinking a murder was being committed, and calculating on saving a human life.

The only thing that met his eye was an automobile flying down the street, bearing two men and two women, and leaving a large cloud of dust behind.

Two hours later two young women appeared at the portals of the Clayton House, seeking admission.

Each was bareheaded, each excited, each well dressed.

To Proprietor A. P. Jones, who answered their summons, they tried to explain their advent at 2 o'clock a. m., without escorts, but Mr. Jones gently bade them desist.

They registered as "Margaret Meyer and friend," and retired at once to a room. But not to sleep. The remainder of the time until daylight was spent in excited conversation, and they were up with the lark, or whatever the favorite bird is in Clayton, and they were passengers on the first street car into the city.

The women told Night Watchman Alonzo Galloway, who directed them to the hotel, that they were lost; that they had been out riding in an automobile, had left it for a short time and become separated from the other members of the party. They had walked at least two miles before reaching Clayton, they felt sure; but of further information concerning themselves they would impart none.

TWO FIRES AT FAIR QUICKLY SUBDUED

Blaze from Crossed Wires in Manufactures Building Followed by Another, With Little Loss.

Fire, which is supposed to have started from spontaneous combustion, for a few moments early Saturday morning threatened serious damage to the Manufactures building. An early discovery, however, and prompt work with the hose, with which the building is equipped, had the fire practically extinguished by the time the firemen arrived.

The fire was first discovered by James Harrington of 3505 Kossuth avenue, a night watchman employed by the United Shoe Machinery Co. He had passed the booth in which P. Mathews has a tannery exhibit, and saw nothing of any fire. In less than three minutes, however, when he was in another part of the building, he heard an explosion and saw the flames burst from a pile of hides.

Harrington ran to the restaurant in the same building and notified employes there of the fire. While he was pulling an alarm box the employes secured the fire hose in the building and had a stream playing upon the blaze. The fire was extinguished within three minutes after its discovery. The loss will not exceed a few hundred dollars.

Friday afternoon a small fire from crossed wires in the exhibit of the Wrought Iron Range Co., in the same building, damaged the exhibit and the furnishings of the booth to the extent of $10. It was easily extinguished before the firemen arrived.

FAIR TICKETS FOR THE CUSTOMERS, TOO

St. Louis Firm Goes Original Plan One Better to Swell St. Louis Day Crowd.

MANY CASCADES VOLUNTEERS

Young Society Men Anxious to Attempt to Make the Dash in an Auto.

St. Louis Day at the World's Fair September 15

There is now a movement among a number of the larger business firms of the city to not only close their places on Sept. 15, St. Louis Day at the World's Fair, and present each of their employes with a ticket, but to also present each of their country customers, who calls in person between Sept. 12 and 14, with a ticket, and thus serve to swell to still greater proportions the crowd, which will make the day truly one to be long remembered in the history of the city.

F. L. Kimball of the American Bed Co. has advised all the country customers of the firm, within a radius of 1000 miles of St. Louis, that tickets to the Fair will be presented them, good only for St. Louis Day, if they call in person Sept. 12, 13 or 14. He suggests that a meeting of the subcommittees be called to meet in the offices of the Business Men's League Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock that the plan may be submitted as a suggestion to be followed by other firms.

The first big order for St. Louis Day tickets has been placed with W. F. Saunders, secretary of the committee on arrangements, by the Laclede Gas Light Co., through its general manager, E. G. Cowdery. Mr. Cowdery has notified the committee on arrangements to purchase 2700 World's Fair tickets for St. Louis Day. In his letter to Mr. Saunders Mr. Cowdery says that one ticket will be placed in each pay envelope Sept. 5, and that all departments of the company will be closed on St. Louis Day.

The Business Men's League is distributing through its members 250,000 circulars telling of St. Louis Day. These are being sent to customers of St. Louis firms throughout the commercial territory covered from St. Louis. Many firms are sending out thousands of these folders.

The special committee from the Civic Improvement League has submitted a report to the committee on arrangements, in which it suggests that a special ticket be issued by the Exposition good only on St. Louis Day. Another suggestion is that tickets be sold at slightly reduced rates to societies, charitable organizations and churches, purchasing in large quantities, and that prizes be offered the organizations selling the greater number of tickets. It also advises that it would be a good plan to induce Pike concessionaires to give a number of tickets to the Exposition, one ticket to be given each tenth person passing through the gates, thus adding a further inducement for people to attend that day, and at the same time offering an inducement to others to attend the Pike attractions, as there are as a general thing several in a crowd. It is pointed out by the committee that if one person in a party has a ticket to a Pike show, he will use it, and that it will be a rare case when the remainder of the party does not accompany him and pay the admission, whereas they might otherwise have remained away.

Chairman A. B. Lambert of the Automobile Club, has presented a plan for a large automobile parade, and also for volunteers to ride an automobile down the steps of the Cascades on the day of days. He reports that several autoists prominent in society, have agreed to perform the act.

MR. AND MRS. FRED. KLEPSATTEL

Aged Couple Journey 5,000 Miles From Their Native Town, and Children Will Aid in Observance of Their Fiftieth Anniversary.

In order to spend their golden wedding with their daughters in St. Louis, Frederick Kleppsattel, aged 78, and his wife, Julia Kleppsattel, aged 71, have journeyed 5000 miles from their native town in Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. Kleppsattel were married in Liebenau, Hanover, Germany, Sept. 3, 1854. They have since lived there. Mr. Kleppsattel is a retired merchant.

Six months ago they decided, after reading of the World's Fair, to celebrate their half century of married life in this country, which they had never seen, and wrote to their seven children in the United States to expect them.

Two weeks ago they arrived in St. Louis, and Sept. 3 there will be a reunion of the family, which is composed of Mrs. Sophie Sicher of 4211 Pleasant street, Mrs. Lina Labes of 1032 North Seventeenth street, Mrs. Magdalena Kubicht of 1730 North Twentieth street, and their three sons, Fred, Carl and Henry Kleppsattel, who are in business in New York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Kleppsattel are in robust health, and are so well pleased with St. Louis that they have decided to spend the rest of their days here, that they may be near their children and grandchildren.

They have also provided for an automobile which shall follow them during the run Tuesday.

They had planned to make their inspection trip Friday, but discovered at the last moment that their auto furnished by the World's Fair Automobile Company could not go into the county because it had no license.

They accordingly postponed the trip and Friday afternoon secured a special permit from the county authorities for their machine.

HOUSE BALKS ON GARBAGE BILL

Citizens Present to Urge Removal of Reduction Plant Meet With Scant Success.

By a vote of 7 to 11, the house of delegates has refused to act upon the bill introduced July 15 providing for the reduction of the city garbage outside the city, causing great disgust to a large delegation of interested citizens, who were urging the house to take up the measure and put it on its final passage.

Many members of the Tenth Ward Improvement association attended the meeting of the house to especially urge the sanitary committee to report the bill, but all efforts were in vain. Finally they secured the introduction of a resolution ordering that the bill be taken up. The resolution severely scored the members of the committee, and demanded that action be taken at once to remove the garbage reduction works outside the city.

Upon a vote the resolution was lost, the vote being Ayes—Birge, Hammerstein, Kinney, Meloney, O'Brien, Rott and Speaker Gazzolo. Noes—Conran, Fontana, McAuliffe, Meehan, Norp, Toschemacher, Weber, Wiedmer, Williams, Withoefft and Zimmermann.

PIGEONS CARRYING NEWS OF BIG DAY

Unique Feature of the Celebration of Liberal Arts Day at the World's Fair.

SPECTACULAR FLORAL PARADE

Endless Strains of Music for Great Great Crowds and Reception for Participants.

Music of all kinds, a flower parade participated in by the smartest turnouts in St. Louis, and a balloon ascension with Washington as the objective point, are the features of Liberal Arts Day at the World's Fair.

The celebration began at 8:45 o'clock this morning, and the program calls for something doing every minute until sunset with its ceremony to mark the closing of the building.

As the week up to the present has been a record-breaker in attendance, the Liberal Artists expect today to be the greatest of the World's Fair thus far.

The opening event was a parade of exhibitors at 8:45 o'clock. They formed outside the Lindell entrance and marched to the Palace of Liberal Arts. Weil's band furnished music, and there was a banner carried for every exhibitor in line. Liberal Artists' yells and cheers at times drowned the sound of the band.

The column arrived at the Palace of Liberal Arts at 9 o'clock and took charge of the formal opening of the doors for the day. There were more cheers and then the music began.

The Palace of Liberal Arts is the home of musical instruments among other things and every variety on display had a place on the day's program. There were orchestral concerts, piano solos, trombone, cornet and flute selections. For a change phonographs were given a turn; then pipe organs, music boxes and vocalists. After the whole gamut had been run once, it was immediately run again.

At noon the famous Mexican Government Band gave a concert in the center of the Liberal Arts' palace and it will play again at 4:30 o'clock.

There was likewise music outside the building, for the Exposition company provided a series of band concerts in the Plaza of Orleans.

At 11 o'clock 1000 homing pigeons were released in the Plaza of Orleans, each carrying a Liberal Arts Day message. They immediately scattered, going in various directions. As they had been brought from different cities it is expected that each will return to its distant home with its message of the Fair.

At 11 o'clock also a reception to Exposition officials, commissioners from states and foreign countries and state and city officials began in the Palace of Liberal Arts. Col. John A. Ockerson, chief of Liberal Arts, and a committee of the exhibitors acted as hosts.

The floral parade will start at 2:30 o'clock from the Lindell entrance after forming on Lindell boulevard just outside the grounds. Almost 1000 automobiles, coaches, carriages and breaks have been entered for the display.

Prizes valued at $1000 have been offered in the various classes and will be awarded at the conclusion of the parade.

The closing event of the day will be the balloon ascension, in which the participants hope to reach Washington. George T. Tomlinson of Syracuse, N. Y., and Carl Myers of Frankfort, N. Y., the contestants, will start from the Plaza of Orleans at 5 o'clock, and the man who lands nearest the Washington monument will be awarded the prize, which is $500. The racing balloons have been anchored all day in the plaza.

Every person entering the gates since they opened this morning received a coupon which was accepted at the Palace of Liberal Arts in exchange for a ticket entitling the holder to a half rate at the shows on the Pike. All day souvenirs were given away by the exhibitors in the building, who have secured a supply which they say will assure every visitor at least one memento of the day.
